All about us

Hi there! My name is Eireann and for over 10 years, my mam and I have been working on our small family business; Tweed Yourself ...what a journey it has been!

Our business was born by having the whacky, but wonderful, idea of creating a unique and interesting footstool for my uncle's birthday. After a few encouraging comments, we decided to give the whole 'business' thing a go.

Since 2013 we have been focused on perfecting our skills and designs, and sourcing the best quality materials, whilst maintaining our traditional handcrafted essence from the Scottish Highlands.

We are so proud to have seen our wee business grow over the years and we cannot wait to see what the future holds!

Me & Mammy

100% Recyclable

For us, being surrounded by the beautiful mountains and luscious green farmer's fields has, fortunately, never been taken for granted, and it's important we keep them that way.

Our environment is always in the forefront of our minds, and we are always looking for the best way to improve our own environmental impact.

Recently, we were finally able to make our footstool packaging 100% recyclable. We were so excited to share this achievement, however, it's not stopping there.

Our green goals moving forward include product redesign to eliminate all man-made fibres!

Why sheepskin?

It's no secret that sheepskin has been, and will continue to be, a staple piece in many homes. Using sheepskin around the house has been a tradition for centuries thanks to the extensive list of health benefits it provides, such as the ability to regulate temperature on the body and its natural repellent of bacteria.

Sheepskin also contains lanolin; a natural wool-based wax, which allows our skin to breath and stay hydrated. It has also been proven to work wonders on irritated skin conditions such as eczema, to relieve itchiness.

One of our biggest reasons for using sheepskin on our footstools, is its fantastic ability to comfort arthritic joints. Aches and pains are relived with the warmth and cushioning of the wool, making our sheepskin footstools a perfect place to rest weary feet.

Some cosy sheepskin can truly make a house a home.

You've heard a lot about sheepskin, but why the name... Tweed Yourself?

Besides my mam's unhealthy obsession with buying meters upon meters of tweeds she will most likely never use, we finish each of our products with a touch of beautifully woven tweed.

You will find a variety of stunning colours within the accessories we offer such as our quirky wee bow ties. And of course, don't forget our iconic tweed horns.

"Treat Yourself at Tweed Yourself"

Handcrafted to perfection

We pride ourselves on the materials used during the build of our furniture, using finest quality hardwoods including oak, walnut and ash, along with lime wood for our more intricately carved items.

Each footstool is hand-carved, hand-built, hand-finished... you get the idea.

Being a small business ensures the quality of our products is second to none; we take the time to perfect each and every one.

They may be unique but rest assured that all our products are built to last a lifetime, and then some.
