SUPPORT STUDENT NEEDS WITH A PEN THAT READS

“Before I had the ReaderPen I wasn’t that confident with reading big general books that all my class could read, but I really wanted to read them. When I got the ReaderPen I realised I could read bigger books like all my class mates. It makes me feel happier just knowing that I can go and get the scanning pen and scan over text I am struggling with.”

- Year 5 Student, Ladybrook Primary

TEACH THEM A STRATEGY

OXFORD
DICTIONARY

“Scanning Pens for us fits really nicely into the use of the schools funding for additional needs. Once you’ve purchased it and you’ve spent the time on the training and the implementation actually if a child is independently using something like Scanning Pens to read with and they don’t need an adult sat next to them that adult is then free to go and support a wider group of pupils.”

- Terri Cawser Assistant Service Lead Pupil and School Support, Birmingham

ALLOW STUDENTS TO READ ON THEIR OWN

STRATEGY FOR THE FUTURE

GIVE THEM THE TOOLS TO SUCCEED INDEPENDENTLY

"Before the ReaderPen you would have to put your hand up or you'd just skip the word out. The ReaderPen helps a lot because you can just go over text and read it and you won't have to disturb the teacher or anyone else. The ReaderPen did increase my confidence a lot."

- Year 5 Student

“ It enables the student to become independent learners and not heavily reliant on adult support. They can access so much reading related content and it breaks down the barrier of not understanding what a question is asking or misreading what a question is asking. ”

- Teacher, Gosberton Academy

“Once the students had become familiar with using the Scanning Pen I noticed their vocabulary had definitely improved, by hearing the words they are able to use them in context. It has helped one of our EAL students dramatically in that respect, his language has improved amazingly and in turn it has made him a much happier child. It has allowed him to understand other pupils and play a part in jokes in the classroom.”

- Charley Hewitt, Teaching Assistant Year 3 - Tuffnell Park Primary School
