Playhouses.

Children are spending less and less time outdoors – and it's having an impact on their development, well-being, and mental health. Parents are trying to encourage children to spend more time outside. A Playhouse provokes the imagination, it can become a fortress, a café, a shop, a log cabin, or a rebel base. A playhouse is a flexible thing that children's imaginations can mold to whatever purpose they want.

Playhouses are a great way for children to have fun, stay fit, explore the world and stimulate their imagination. Whether it's small or large, a playhouse can become a big part of childhood, where the whole family can gain magical memories.
