+ lots more!

Welcome

DEAR DEALER

Glee - the UK's most loved garden and outdoor living trade event!

We are excited to return to Glee this year 28th-30th June 2022 at the NEC, Birmingham (Our stand located in Hall 8-20 Stand 20G30-H31) to showcase our latest and best-selling brands.

With our Webb, Greenworks, Q Garden and The Handy brands, we encompass the full range of gardeners and gardens, from the beginner to the experienced enthusiast, from the tiny urban back yard to the expansive country garden. We have invested in a considerably larger stand than the previous year as we want to show retailers first-hand the breadth of our product ranges and, just as importantly, their quality. We are also keen to demonstrate how we can support retailers and make their customers' experience easy and enjoyable, be that through the supply of thoughtfully designed, highly visible point of sale material, through to excellent stock availability, including spare parts.

In this edition, I take a look at the 'Supply Chain' and why garden machinery suppliers need to be proactive, not just reactive.

Plus, don't forget to plan ahead with our Autumn Promotions on page 15

All the best,

Mark

Review TRIED & TESTED

Electric Scarifier and Lawn Rake

Mars and Kirsten moved to the countryside and gave up their city careers in exchange for wellies, nature, fresh air and sustainable living.

Reviewed by Mars and Kirsten from www.myhomefarm.co.uk

The lawn in our back garden has not been in great condition, so this year we decided to take action and refresh it. To get started, we used the Webb electric scarifier and lawn rake to remove moss and shallow weeds, and to give the soil some much needed aeration.

This is the first time that we've ever used a scarifier, and it can be quite scary when you see the lawn getting stripped of its greenness. We were, however, prepared for this and as soon as we finished scarifying and aerating, we sprinkled Gro-Sure's Aqua Gel Coated Smart Grass Lawn Seed onto any areas that were bare.

As a task, it was really quick and easy, and the Webb scarifier, with its 1500W motor makes light work removing moss and dethatches the lawn providing space for grass to grow.

All in all, we're very pleased to say that this exercise has been a success. Within 2-3 weeks, the grass has started to bounce back nicely. There are still some areas that have weeds like buttercups – we will remove as much as of these by hand as possible and then repeat the scarifying in the late summer on a much 'softer' level to allow the grass to recover for the autumn and winter.

48cm (19") & 53cm (21") Alloy Deck Disc Bladed Self Propelled Petrol Rotary Lawnmower

Reviewed by Tommy Cross

Garden TV Presenter & Landscape Business Owner
www.myhomeground.co.uk

What I liked ✓

Build quality, Power, Retractable cutting blades, Large strong wheels, HUGE collection bags.

The Webb Petrol Aluminium Deck Mowers are both built like tanks and you'll soon be conquering the grounds or garden with them in no time!

Perfect for? ✓

Large areas of lawn and would be ideal for someone wanting to maintain grounds, paddocks or pasture without having to go to the great expense of a commercial grade mower.

This aluminium decked machine is available in 2 sizes and both are more than capable of tackling even the most grandiose of gardens - I set both models to work on an area of paddock grass lawn approximately 0.8 of an acre in size, with the lawn roughly 4 cm in length - and they provided great results - as would be expected from a brand whose heritage is based on mowing machinery excellence!

Both machines look the part too - the iconic Webb logo and the classic "racing green chassis" topped off with a premium Briggs and Stratton Engine. The 21"/53cm uses the 163cc Briggs and Stratton Engine while the smaller (but not by much!) 19"/48cm has a 150cc engine. The body looks and feels strong as too do the pilot handles - all secured tightly into place using the quick release levers. The wheels are big, grooved and rugged enough to withstand the verges and gravel paths/areas in the yard and grounds. Ideal for maintaining traction over terrain, but it was in the rough stuff where both mowers really come into their own - I was able to devastate the dandelions, blitz the banks and mow down the meadow grass in the paddock without either unit skipping a beat.

Down at the business end the clever cutting blade comprises of 4 retractable steel blades - much shorter than a conventional mower blade - these are secured on individual mounting nut allowing the blade to push back into the main rotary disc - meaning if - as we did - you hit the odd stone/brick/manhole cover you will avoid causing either your mower or the driver any damage! But this is NO gimmick - both units gave crisp consistent cuts on formal and paddock grass - and the generous grass boxes (a HUGE 70LTRs! on the 53cm unit) filled up evenly without any noticeable "side spray" or jamming.

The 53cm unit comes with a side discharge - which is great on paddock or meadow grass! Webb could have been forgiven for compromising here but the side chute felt strong and attached easily and securely leaving neat lines of fine mulch across the lawn! The single lever height adjustment felt strong and smooth as too did starting both units. The self drive is smooth and powerful - finding the sweet spot somewhere between pedestrian and pacey! It was also a real asset on the steep banks around the garden.

The NEW Supreme models are the flagship of the Webb Lawnmower Range. Powered exclusively by Briggs & Stratton engines and fitted with a host of premium features for exceptional performance, ease of use, and durability.

Supply CHAIN

WHY GARDEN MACHINERY SUPPLIERS NEED TO BE PROACTIVE, NOT JUST REACTIVE

By Mark Moseley,
Handy Sales & Marketing Director

2020 saw garden retailers shut their doors to the public in an unprecedented and wholly unpredicted UK wide lockdown as the COVID pandemic took hold. Suppliers cancelled orders and manufacturers stopped manufacturing. Yet the industry was caught out, with demand for garden equipment soaring in the heatwave that swept the UK in May 2020 outstripping supply. Even our own well stocked warehouse was emptied in a single month!

The industry played catch up for over a year, but manufacturers weren't able to produce equipment fast enough. Furthermore, the majority of that equipment is produced in China, but ships were unavailable coupled with a severe shortage of container availability, so the products weren't making it to our shores in time and those that did saw a huge increase in shipping costs. Lawnmowers, which were the first to sell out, took over 12 months to catch up to demand. Faced with such lengthy delays and stock arriving out of season and therefore unsellable, a number of companies sadly were unable to weather the storm.

The industry's response has, by and large, been to rely on retailers to increase their warehousing capacity to hold more stock. But we believe this isn't the right approach. It's not the job of the retailer to do this. The onus should be on suppliers. It is our opinion that many suppliers simply aren't stepping up to the challenges faced within the industry and are carrying on in business as usual fashion.

Why do I say this? Well, COVID may have been a bolt from the blue, but supply chain issues were already presenting themselves several years before, both on the back of Brexit and also as a result of climate change initiatives which were leading to Chinese factories operating at 50% capacity. At Handy we could see the writing on the wall and had already implemented key changes. The pandemic just accelerated these plans.

Suppliers need to directly address supply chain issues, rather than leave retailers to carry the can. Firstly, suppliers need to increase their stock holdings and storage capacity. At Handy, we have made an extra £1m stock investment along with a significant expansion of our warehousing which has seen two extensions completed and a third, due for completion this year, increasing capacity by a further 30%. Secondly, suppliers must ensure stock arrives in plenty of time. Pre Covid, stock would generally arrive in January / February, but with the ongoing delays and issues we are all facing, November would be a safer option.

"At Handy, we have made an extra £1m stock investment along with a significant expansion of our warehouse"

Why haven't garden machinery suppliers reacted accordingly? Well, in some cases - especially with smaller companies - working so far in advance puts a huge strain on cashflow and the risk of overtrading prevents these companies from making that investment. Also, the cost of building and energy prices have gone through the roof, so new buildings and extensions are a serious investment. In the case of larger brands, however, it often comes down to a long, corporate decision making process, stifling their ability to react swiftly to the changing geopolitical landscape we find ourselves in. One thing is for sure though: the industry needs to be more forward thinking and ensure retailers are not left with bare shelves. Thankfully, Handy is a family run business, enabling us to move relatively speedily as the decision making process is quick with less sign off levels and red tape.

Manufacturers, distributors and retailers have all experienced some incredibly challenging times over recent years, and we must all work together to ensure our future is a prosperous one. However, garden machinery suppliers need to be more proactive to ensure a seamless product supply and correct the balance between supplier and retailer stock holding. If not, we are at risk of jeopardising the garden trade business, turning what is currently an impulse buy into a considered purchase, and we all know how that will affect sales.

Order Today, Have It Tomorrow

In an ideal world you would always have products available for consumers to take away from your business, however in the event that your customer requires a product you do not have in stock, we operate on a next day delivery policy for all orders placed before 4pm.

All machine orders over £150 nett and parts orders over £50 nett qualify for FREE delivery, ensuring that you get the products you need when you need them, and retain your margins at the same time.

*Orders under the above order values incur a delivery charge, some postcodes exclude next day delivery.

Get in touch via Sales@handys.co.uk for further information.

Handy

The home of brands

For retailers looking to reduce the impact of supply chain issues, they need to scrutinise their suppliers' ability to deliver the goods, so to speak. We recommend retailers assess their suppliers' ability to do this by examining the following aspects of their business:

1. Product availability

Ideally the supplier should be able to show at least 90% product availability. We are seeing some suppliers fall to as low as 50%. Anything below 60% really is untenable as, whilst you may find your first order is fulfilled, any further orders may well have gaping holes in them or be entirely absent. At Handy, we currently are operating at 97% availability but are always looking to improve on that figure.

2. Depth of range: choice is key!

At handy we stock over 900 different garden machinery equipment products to meet different price points, different garden sizes and types and, of course, gardeners with varying levels of experience. Linking back to product availability though, there's no point in offering a wide range unless it's actually available for sale! For suppliers with small ranges this is easy, but less so for larger companies, so check that 90% plus availability covers the full range not just the best sellers.

3. Straightforward business T&Cs

Why make life difficult when it doesn't need to be? Don't we all want to work with companies that are easy to do business with? Avoid suppliers with high minimum orders or tortuous T&Cs and ensure next day delivery is available.

4. Fast access to spare parts

This is a personal pain point for me as it drives me to distraction when you have a product but are unable to use it as spares are not stocked. And it's not just me; it makes for a bad customer experience, who (unfairly!) lay the blame at the door of the retailer. Both small and large suppliers are guilty here; we are aware of one major brand who was unable to supply spare parts for an incredible six months! Handy has 75,000 spare part lines and we always have the basics in stock, but it's not an easy thing to do.

NEW WEBB 20V CORDLESS RANGE

Now available for 2022, from British garden equipment manufacturer Webb, is the latest Cordless range of hedge and lawn care products with new fast-charging and long-lasting interchangeable 20V Lithium-ion batteries for optimum performance.

Light but powerful, the new Webb Cordless range of garden tools offers customers convenience and flexibility. Each tool in the range comes complete with a battery charger that features a fast-charging 1.5Ah slot, so each battery only takes 80 minutes to charge (2Ah only). The Lithium-ion batteries hold their charge and don't degrade in storage, which is an important consideration for choosing garden tools, which may not be used on a daily basis. However, if you do find yourself with an uncharged battery and don't want to wait, you can easily swap it with the battery or any other Webb 20v products in the range as they have been designed to use the same, easily interchangeable battery.

Featuring a new design, the 20V Cordless Hedgetrimmer comes equipped with generous 50cm dual-action blades for a sharp finish and clean cut. Lightweight and compact, it is ideally suited to smaller gardens and lighter trimming jobs, with a runtime of up to 45 minutes (2Ah).

Recently updated to form part of the new Cordless range, 20v Long Reach Hedgetrimmer is a lightweight, versatile long-reach hedge trimmer designed for tall hedges due to its extendable shaft with articulating cutter-head - up to 45 minutes runtime (2 Ah).

For jobs closer to the ground, the 20V Cordless Linetrimmer is designed to put the finishing touches to a lawn with 25cm (10") cutting width, using an auto-feed head and adjustable telescopic shaft. The line trimmer can be used to trim or edge your lawns and pathways with its rotating head, up to 35 minutes runtime (2 Ah).

Also available in the range is the 33cm Cordless 20V Rotary Lawnmower with integrated fins for up to the edge mowing. Featuring a 33cm cutting width and a spacious 35-litre easy-empty grass collector, the WEV20LM33 allows for easy manoeuvring while mowing. An integrated handle also enables it to be easily transported around smaller gardens. Supplied with 5 cutting heights from 25-65cm, with one easy adjustment lever - up to 35 minutes runtime (2 Ah).

For the more demanding task of tilling the soil, the 20V Cordless Tiller is a lightweight, easy-to-handle model. A 19cm (7.5") working width and capable of depths of 15cm (6") this is ideal for your flower bed or small allotment. Up to 40 minutes runtime from its 2Ah Battery.

20V Cordless Hedgetrimmer WEV20HT 2Ah Battery & Charger included

Equipped with expansive 50cm-long double-sided blades, and a substantial 20V of cutting-edge lithium-ion battery-power. 45 minute cutting time.
