Monty Miracle was created by Martin Beaumont, who is passionate about caring for stone and other surfaces.

Having worked for English Heritage for many years, conservation was front of mind when he started to consider creating an alternative to aggressive jet washing, and he used his experience at Shell to partner with a chemist, creating the perfect chemical outdoor cleaner. They took their time to ensure the solution was just right.

Newly patented Monty Miracle is kinder to surfaces, it produces better, longer lasting results, and it's easier and quicker for consumers to use.

Martin says:

"I've worked in the cleaning industry with wide varieties of surfaces for years and I find it heart-breaking that so many people use aggressive jet washing to clean their drives and patios: not only does it destroy sealants and grout, it can remove the surface layer of stone, leaving it exposed and vulnerable to further damage and decay, ruining natural lustre. Our alternative is proven to offer a simple, gentle, more effective solution that is so much quicker - and we have a range of five-star reviews and excellent online sales figures to prove it."
