Integration

For most of human history, art and science were inseparable. One came from the other. In order to paint on a cave wall, a dye must be created experimenting with chemistry. Likewise, ancient feats of engineering are still marveled at today for their inherent beauty. Without constraints, kids are free to explore their creativity and self expression however they like. STEAM Powered Kids integrates science to do art, and art to do science.

Curiosity

Pre-school is a critical time for learning basic skills, proportions, hand-eye coordination, and importantly, how-not-to-break-stuff. Thinking Kits are designed for preschoolers just as they come out of toddler age and start to assemble and play with more complex toys. Thinking Kits encourage early development through a wide variety of colourful characters and animals, fairies and mermaids, as well as magnets and matching games. Thinking Kits are STEAM for young minds and little hands.

The Young Minds section features a variety of themed puzzles and activities designed to teach young children the basic concepts of science, technology, arts & creativity, and also mathematics.

Excitement

Crafty kids show at an early age that they are fascinated with colour, texture, and creating things out of their boundless imaginations. More than just decorative, crafts, like all art, are a part of the creator's personality. They can be kept for personal comfort, or given to friends and family as a shared connection. KidzMaker is packaged and branded differently from other 4M series, and we have created a matching display case, so this stand out series can really stand out.
