

Hydro Herb

Our selected range of products share common ground in their ethical and eco qualities — enhancing our lifestyle and wellbeing, embracing the best trends of good humanity.

Here, let us share with you the joys of self-grow kits by Hydro Herb.

Products designed with the environment in mind

Our self-grow Hydro Herb kits are ready to grow indoors, hydroponically without the need for soil. Herbs take six weeks to mature and can last for years thereafter.

Every component of the kit is either recycled and recyclable or entirely biodegradable, really designed with the environment in mind — ideal for the current times.

The wine bottles that form the largest part of our kit are reused locally minimising any carbon production from melting the glass down or transport.

We use capillary matting that is recycled and the plastic bottles in our kits are also made from recycled plastic that may itself be recycled.

Made by hand

Our Jiffy Pellets that we use are made of coir (ground coconut husk) rather than peat, so that we are not contributing to the reduction of peat bogs.

Our cork lid/place mat comes from renewable sources in Europe as do the natural rubber band.

Our terracotta pebbles used in the kit along with the cork and natural rubber band are all biodegradable.

We have genuinely done all that we can to ensure the manufacture of our Hydro Herb kits has as little environmental impact as is possible.

Natural ingredients

The hydroponic solution in our kits is made in the UK and certified organic in origin.

You can use it knowing that all the nutrients within it, while being concentrated have been sourced from organically sound sources, giving you peace of mind in what you are eating.

100% sustainability

The bottles we use in our kits are recycled helping to reduce material and energy waste.

We have designed our products in such a way as to try to reduce waste as much as possible.

The cork lid is intended to be used as a coaster during the life of the planter and we hope that people will find a use for the band used to hold the package together.

Packaging is kept to a minimum and wherever possible we use recycled boxes for postage of our orders.

Never tested on animals

As well as being organically certified our growth solution has never been tested on animals, a practice we hope to see end wherever practicable.
