OUR mission

In 2018, we embarked on a journey that would transform our family. We relocated from Australia to Ghana, 3 kids in tow, not just to give them a more grounded life experience, but also so they can connect with their culture and heritage.

Our move has also brought us the opportunity to work closer with our artisan teams. Being based in Ghana means improved communication and quality control. It also means we get a better understanding of the direct needs of the team so we can provide additional career opportunities with further training and skill development. While the traditional craft of basket weaving is an important skill, it is also important to provide people with the opportunity to further expand their skill set. This remains at the core of our business focus.

OUR projects

Importantly, we don't just focus on education for the adults - it is vital to ensure children have access to quality education in order to empower them to be in a position to choose their own career. Schools in Ghana are heavily under-resourced and so we have developed a specific product line - 'Dolls for a Cause' range - to raise funds that go towards building youth centres across Ghana. We have a centre in Teshie and plans to expand.

Sanitation is still an issue in some rural village areas in Ghana. Our next project will be to construct ecological sanitation toilets that turn waste into compost in collaboration with the Dream Big Ghana Foundation. We have commenced securing land for the next toilet site in Bolgatanga and have plans to build many more.

Head to our website to read more about The Adinkra Project plans.

MEET the maker

Our products are not made by machine, mass-produced and cut to precision. No two products are ever the same. Under the shade of a baobab tree, as women weave, you can hear the laughter from the chatter, and children playing at their feet. Basket weaving is a skill passed through the generations.

In 2021, we opened a production facility in Accra with a team of full time master weavers. At the production facility, we not only provide tools and materials but cover transportation costs, provide meals, and health care services. This allows the weavers to save on expenses and maximise their earnings per basket; achieving a far higher price than if they sold through the traditional market place.

All of our products are ethically made, and our focus is on empowering communities, working together to provide a sustainable future.
