EGYPT: BECOMING THE WORLD'S LARGEST TEXTILE FACTORY

Egypt is a strategic business hub, close to Europe and positioned along key trade routes. It is part of multiple trade agreements, including AfCFTA, GSP, GATT, GATS, EFTA, Turkey, and the Egyptian-European Mediterranean Partnership. Its agreement with the EU allows duty-free access for Egyptian products, with no import duties to the EU or USA.

With a population of over 110 million, Egypt has a strong labor force. Its textile industry, the second largest in the country, has the highest level of vertical integration in Africa and is rooted in a history of high-quality cotton production. The Egyptian government is currently modernizing the sector, with recent industrial mergers, including what officials call the "world's largest textile factory."
