HOUSE 1987

ESTD 1987 HOME, GIFT & LIFESTYLE EDIT

Sponsored by STONEGLOW

Inside the rebrand

To give The Summer House Edit a fresh new identity, inspiration was drawn from past The Summer House editions, to create a new logo and sunbeam emblem (see page 6&7). With serif fonts and a luxurious colour palette, we wanted to capture the timeless elegance of the high-end brands linked to The Summer House Edit's heritage.

The emblem, inspired by the classic summer house shape and the sun, brings depth and character to the brand. It is used to create patterns that offer a modern take on wallpapers reminiscent of the era in which The Summer House was born.

Welcome

It's a pleasure to welcome you to another edition of The Summer House Edit, celebrating both Spring Fair's 76th edition and the 36th edition of this vibrant, ever-evolving sector.

Last year's refreshed and rebranded approach has truly set the tone for future curation and direction, carrying impressive momentum across interest, engagement, and industry relevance. Today, The Summer House Edit continues to stand as the ultimate destination for aspirational yet commercially driven excellence—offering an inspiring blend of creativity and innovation at every turn.

This year marks an exciting new chapter. You'll notice a fresh visual identity across the destination, now completely filling hall 8 and the majority of hall 7. We've doubled down focus on our much loved The Summer House Edit Café, ensuring buyers ability to pause, recharge, and connect. It also provides the perfect setting for our annual stakeholder drinks.

Beyond aesthetics, our community has grown. We are delighted to welcome new members and a celebrated and strengthened international presence. Exceptional brands such as Light & Living, Zefferano glassware and lighting from Italy, and Jars Ceramicists from Jack Moore LLP, just some of the must attend attractions. Our unique European reach continues to shine, with contributions from The UK, France, The Netherlands, Portugal, Sweden, Denmark, Italy, and Spain.

In direct response to buyer feedback, we've placed deeper emphasis on key categories. Tableware steps into the spotlight, with beautiful ceramics and dressed tables redefining lifestyle trends. At the same time, interior design continues to accelerate as a sub-focus, with many exhibitors now offering expanded design capabilities. Brands such as Gallery Direct, The Libra Company, Art Marketing, PR Home, Mindy Brownes Interiors, Pacific Lifestyle, Deluxe HomeArt, Present Time, and RV Astley demonstrating the strength and breadth of this offering.

Our new Design sector, situated outside of Summerhouse, will elevate this journey even further. While Summerhouse remains primarily retail-focused, it is increasingly aligned with designer needs through its creativity, expertise, and broad supply chain capability.

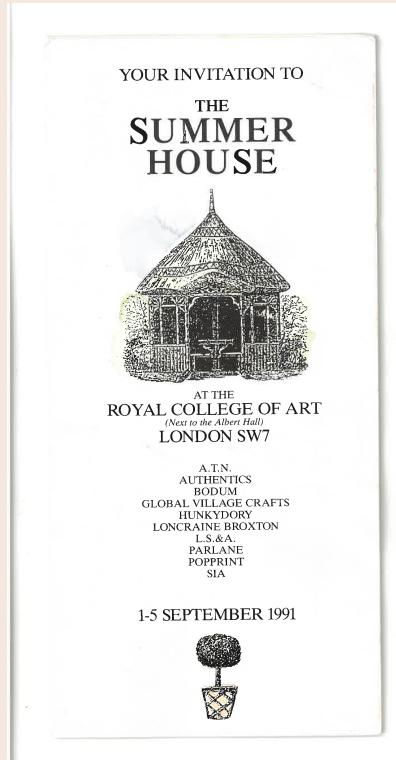

Across the destination, tablescapes, licensed homeware, and houseware collections continue to feature strongly, supported by extensive European ranges from My Gifts Trade, Captivate Brands, Portmeirion, and DRH Collection. Looking ahead to 2026, The Summer House Edit is already at perfect capacity, an ultimate offering, poised to deliver the very best in home, gift, and lifestyle.

I look forward to an inspiring, successful show and year ahead.

Best wishes,
Gareth, Editor of The Summer House Edit
Spring & Autumn Fair

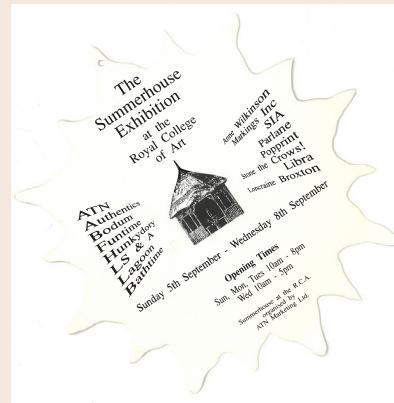

John Allan & Philippa Allan OBE

John and Philippa Allan were the original creators of The Summer House, designing it to provide a curated, design-focused exhibition space for premium, upmarket products. Alongside this, they lead Stone the Crows, a company known for its distinctive range of gift and homeware. Through their work, they continue to champion thoughtful design and innovative retail solutions, drawing on their extensive experience in the industry.

By Philippa & John:
The Summer House was born out of a straightforward but pressing challenge. At the Harrogate Gift Fair, many exhibitors struggled with a lack of suitable exhibition space, and the pegboard finish on display stands failed to complement the premium, upmarket products they offered. Recognising this gap, we saw an opportunity through our company Stone the Crows, to create something transformative. The idea took shape when new tentage became available. We proposed an ambitious plan: to purchase an entire marquee and curate it ourselves. The vision was bold - to handpick the best companies across the industry, each renowned for their high-quality design and innovation. By bringing these exceptional exhibitors together under one roof, we aimed to elevate the buying experience, offering visitors a curated glimpse into the future of design and market trends.

From the outset, The Summer House was more than just a venue; it was a statement. It was conceived as the place to be and to be seen. We took immense pride in creating an environment where the industry's leading companies could showcase their finest work. Every detail mattered – from the meticulously crafted stands to the exciting displays – and these efforts combined to create an atmosphere that was both inspiring and aspirational.

Reflecting on those early days, we are filled with pride at what The Summer House achieved. It brought together a community of like-minded creators who pushed boundaries and inspired others. The ambience we cultivated was very special and left a lasting impression on both exhibitors and buyers alike. Now in its 35th edition, we were delighted to hear about the considerable efforts going into reinvigorating this iconic space.

We are eagerly anticipating the debut of the new 'The Summer House: Home, Gift & Lifestyle Edit', and look forward to experiencing the same dedication to quality, celebration of design, and forward-thinking vision that has defined this space since its inception.

We'll see you there!
 Philippa & John
