

WHOLESALE BROCHURE

Òir

(pronounced oar)

is Gaelic for something golden.

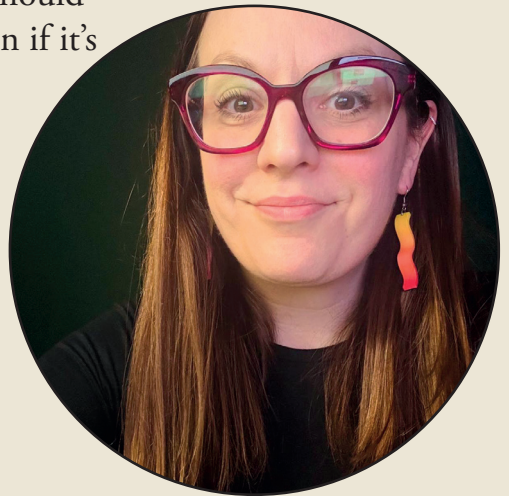

Like so many of us, I've become increasingly aware of my personal impact on the planet, but I also love luxury cosmetics, which is sometimes conflicting, and I don't think it needs to be.

I was conscious that I was using a lot of shower gel in plastic bottles and wanted a more sustainable option, so I learned how to make soap with a blend of super moisturising oils to create a real washing treat. It's a great plastic free replacement for shower gel, and looks beautiful on any sink or bathtub.

Òir (pronounced oar) means gold in Gaelic, and is a nod to my Scottish roots and my love of luxury. Everyone should have a little gold in their lives, even if it's just in their soap!

ABOUT OUR SOAPS

At Òir we believe in sustainable luxury.

With our soaps you can do your bit for the planet, while also treating yourself to beautiful products.

Each bar is handmade in South Queensferry, just outside Edinburgh, from a blend of deeply moisturising oils. We mix cocoa butter, shea butter, olive oil, castor oil and coconut oil with a unique blend of essential oils to create something really special. Add some clay or charcoal to colour, and that's it, nothing nasty.

We're especially proud that the shea butter we use is sourced from a woman's cooperative in Ghana, helping the women who make it lead more independent lives.

We use the cold process method to make our bars, so they have to cure for four weeks. Please be mindful of this when you place your order as there may be a wait time for your lovely soaps, but we'll keep you up to date on that.

The base of the balms is made from cocoa butter, vanilla infused sunflower oil, sweet almond oil, avocado butter. They're all bound together using candelilla wax, which is vegan. And then finished off with a hint of essential oil to give one of six scent profiles.
