

Benefits of becoming an Instructor

-  Freedom to work the hours you want, when you want
-  A dedicated team providing full, ongoing support
-  Regular training and CPD sessions
-  Develop your career by adding new skills to your portfolio
-  Mentoring from experienced Lantra Instructors
-  Opportunities to contribute to the future of training

What I like most about working with Lantra is that every day and every course is different. You get to meet lots of people who all have their own story to tell.

Grow your career in the land-based and environment sector

Why not consider becoming a freelance Instructor for the UK and Ireland's leading not-for-profit awarding organisation in environment and land-based training.

As a Lantra Instructor, you'll enjoy the freedom and flexibility of working for yourself in the great outdoors, as well as playing a crucial role in delivering essential skills and training to a diverse group of learners.

The original plan was a career in primary school teaching. I decided it was for me early on and have enjoyed gaining the qualifications I needed.

What you need to become an Instructor

Up to date training certificates for the skills in which you wish to instruct.

Valid First Aid certificate (3-day first aid at work for Forestry and Arboriculture for example).

Teaching qualification or certificate in Instructional Techniques.

If you do not have all the above, then all is not lost! We can advise on what to do, where to go and can help you start the process without having all the pieces in place.

The Instructor Journey

To get started, we will need a few details about your skills and experience and the main area of interest you'd like to develop as an Instructor or Assessor. Someone from our dedicated Instructor team will then get in touch to talk you through the next steps.
