Infocast's must-attend US renewable finance summit comes to Europe

Where Europe's renewable energy deals get done

Solar + Wind Finance & Investment Summit Europe is a senior, finance-led forum focused on capital deployment, deal structuring, and project execution across Europe's renewable energy market. Designed for organisations actively financing, developing, or partnering on solar, wind, storage, and hybrid assets — it is where senior decision-makers align capital, risk, and execution to move deals forward in a market facing tighter lending conditions and higher execution risk.

What this means for you

Live deal flow

Direct access to investors seeking assets, developers with active pipelines, and lenders assessing structures in a format built for commercial conversations, not broadcast panels

Capital and risk intelligence

A clear picture of how capital is being allocated, risk priced and transferred, and projects moved from development through financial close in a market facing tighter lending conditions and higher execution risk

Market and policy clarity

A sharp read on the financing structures, revenue stack economics, and regulatory shifts directly affecting project economics, debt capacity, and investment decisions in 2026 and beyond

The right relationships

The senior counterparties shaping Europe's renewable energy transactions, in a room where commercial intent is the entry requirement

Why Attend?

Built on the track record of Infocast's Solar + Wind Finance & Investment Summit in the US, the European edition brings the same deal-driven approach to a market that has been missing it. There is no equivalent forum in Europe focused purely on how renewable energy transactions are structured, financed, and closed. For organisations with active mandates in European renewables, this is where the relationships that move deals forward are built.

"You have all the different financial pieces of the value chain, which is unique to your event; and we need that in Europe. Being able to meet with a lot of investors, understanding where they are in terms of capital raising, what their areas of focus are and what they're looking for is very useful for us to prepare for the year ahead."
