Angies Folk Art Summer Catalogue 2023

About Angies Folk Art

After a long and successful career Angie now lives in Devon with her husband who runs the support side of the business. Angie has always had a passion for drawing, creating magazine covers and posters for a limited number of customers. She is a very private person who is not comfortable with being in the spotlight. Today's modern technology does not fit well with her. She is passionate about the environment and the weight of our footprints on the world.

Quality is important to Angie, as is the environment. So, all of her work is printed on high quality stock that has been FSC accredited by a state-of-the-art printing facility here in the UK.

We run an 'On demand' service thanks to the digital printing we use. This reduces waste from over ordering & over stocking required by older technologies. It also uses the latest in vegan inks and recycling technology.

Using this system allows delivery to our customers direct from the printing facility, reducing double handling and fuel miles.

Angie loves attending regular craft fairs where she can interact with her customers and get their feedback as they discuss the stories evoked by the images she has drawn.

Her love of the natural world often influences her work and underlies many of her beliefs.

At the core of the designs is Angie and her wonderful imagination. As she says:

"I love to create images that draw you in and ask you to create a story around them.

Ideally I like my work to have a little mystery and bring a little smile."
