Our Story

Rococo Chocolates was founded in 1983 by Chantal Coady OBE, who wanted to change the way fine chocolate was perceived.

Following on from a Saturday job in Harrods selling confectionary, Chantal knew she wanted to create her own emporium of luxury chocolate, one that was an inspiring engagement of the senses that real chocolate deserves. So, armed with a little knowledge, a dangerous passion and the belief that there was room for a radically different approach to chocolate, Chantal opened the doors of the first Rococo Chocolates shop on the King's Road in Chelsea.

Our iconic toile pattern was inspired by the "moules pour chocolat", or chocolate moulds from a famed Parisian mould maker, which Chantal transformed into a repeating pattern similar to a Toile De Jouy.

In the early years, Rococo Chocolate operated as a small boutique, selling handmade chocolates made using high-quality ingredients. The company quickly gained a reputation for its creative and innovative approach to chocolate-making, and Coady became a well-known figure in the industry.

Over the years, Rococo Chocolate has expanded its range of products, introducing new flavours and products such as chocolate bars, truffles, and chocolate gifts. We have also opened several retail locations in London, including a flagship store on King's Road in Chelsea.

MOULES FANTASIES

The Brand

The Rococo brand is quintessentially British. It's a part of the establishment but doesn't take itself too seriously.

Our iconic blue and white packaging symbolises heritage in a contemporary way, appealing to a customer base far beyond the local residents who still shop at the original Kings Road store.

At Rococo Chocolates we pride ourselves on our five core brand pillars, which define us and set us apart from the crowd.

Rococo Chocolates' mission is to encourage people to treat themselves and the people that they love.

We combine the most delicious chocolates with the most iconic packaging to create the most memorable experience.

Our Values

TASTE

Everything that we produce tastes exceptional

BRITISH CREATIVITY

We are committed to showcasing the best of British creativity and craft

QUALITY

Our chocolates are expertly crafted by our chocolatiers who will not compromise on quality

ORIGINALITY

We create chocolates that are imaginative and artistic

EXPERIENCE

We give our customers unforgettable experiences, whether it's the emotions evoked through our products or the service provided in our shops

Mission & Vision

At Rococo Chocolates, our vision is to embody the pinnacle of chocolate artistry and innovation, globally renowned for our unique fusion of creativity, craftsmanship, and British sophistication. Our commitment to excellence and innovation will continue to drive us, ensuring that every Rococo chocolate is not only a delightful treat but a masterpiece of flavour and artistry, perfect for those who appreciate the finest things in life

Our Chocolate

Since our acquisition by the Prestat group in June 2022, we have switched our house chocolate couverture to DOMORI chocolate.

This year, we are introducing new recipes using Arriba Nacional Trinitario chocolate from Hacienda Victoria in Ecuador.

Cultivated near the birthplace of cacao, the rescued varietal comes from a seed bank to maintain the distinctive flavour profile of the mother tree.

We are also making strides in incorporating the extra-rare Criollo, which constitutes 0.01% of the global production of cacao, and is famed for its incredible taste and unique aromas.

After the cocoa is grown, harvested, fermented and conched, it is shipped to our sister company Domori for processing. They have gained Global recognition for their chocolate-refining processes, and for the exceptional quality of the chocolate couverture they produce.

From roasting the cocoa beans at a low temperature, to refining them into cocoa liqueur, they pour all of their experience and their passion into crafting the best chocolate couverture.

The low-impact process ensures all the delicate flavours of the ancient cocoa beans are preserved during the transformation process, so you can taste it in the finished product.

Our Chocolate Kitchen

Our chocolate kitchen and operations are based on North Acton. There, we develop new recipes and produce our handmade chocolates as well as our small-batch artisan chocolates.

Drawing from over 30 years of experience in producing luxury chocolates and bakery goods, we are proud to be BRC AA* certified, and to be working with the highest quality of cacao and other raw ingredients.

To this day, a large part of the production process is artisanal and still done by hand. Our team decorates chocolates and truffles with transfers, candied flowers and intricate patterns, before packing our boxes by hand and finishing them off with our iconic ribbons.

A large part of the production process is still done by hand.

London-based Rococo Chocolates has mastered the art of incorporating flowers into its iconic chocolate.

THEY'RE TALKING ABOUT US

For four decades chocoholics have flocked to Rococo Chocolates, drawn to their pristine counters piled high with lip-licking, tastebud-tickling, award-winning truffles – even the late Queen was a fan. In fact, she liked Rococo's exquisite artisan bars and delightfully dusty truffles so much that she made founder Chantal Coady the only chocolatier with an OBE to her name

CHOCOLATE BARS

Our new range of bars is pared down, with only the most exquisite flavours and ingredients that lets our Trinitario chocolate shine.

Our founder, Chantal Coady OBE, came up with the idea of adding sea salt in chocolate whilst on a holiday in Cornwall.

Today, we use Halen Môn salt from Anglesey, in Wales, as well as other carefully selected ingredients from the rest of the UK and beyond to keep introducing new sensory experiences.
