Welcome to Alstons

Sofas for Living

We are proud to present our stunning and versatile Upholstery Collection.

Our sofas are made to be more than just beautiful; we make them to withstand all the demands of life. Why? Because Alstons understands that sofas are at the centre of the home. They're the focal point around which life moves, the place where families and friends come together, day after day – the spot where people choose to spend their precious free time – and we think that's a powerful thing.

We believe a truly great sofa is attractive and comfortable and demands to be used every day: a sofa that is made for living.

Alstons has dedicated the last sixty years to manufacturing sofas that meet this ideal: sofas that are beautifully designed and upholstered, and built with expert skill from high quality materials.

Olly

This is a great addition to the collection, very neat, beautifully tailored and compact in proportion. With a modern track arm, it will fit the smallest of spaces, ideal for those unexpected overnight guests.

Our Heritage

The Alstons family were in the furniture trade for 150 years and were very proud of their heritage.

Back in 1860, two brothers, William and Ambrose Alston, opened a furniture shop in Sudbury's North Street instead of following the family line into the weaving trade. Master cabinet-makers by trade, the brothers' shop quickly prospered, with loyal customers spreading the word about the brothers' charming, well-made cabinets. Towards the end of the century they were able to move to Sudbury's bustling Old Market Place, where they opened up a larger shop with cabinet and upholstery making workshops located behind.

In 1950 Leslie decided to establish an upholstery manufacturing business on the back of success he had with upholstery in their original Old Market Place workshop in Sudbury. The factory moved three times within Colchester before settling in Gosbecks Road. Over the next three decades the business expanded under Alan's leadership. During that period it established itself as a major producer of well-engineered upholstery.

The business grew steadily and by 1980 it was occupying a number of satellite factories in addition to its Colchester base which was run by the fifth generation of Alston brothers, John and David Alston.

Today the business continues to thrive under the same values and ethos that the Alstons family created.

Their values are still the same as they always were: excellent quality, British-made products and steadfastly impeccable service.

Design & Manufacturing

Our commitment to quality in all stages of our manufacturing process means that our sofas are great looking, comfortable, affordable and ideally suited to everyday life.

We celebrate thoughtful design. When we sit down to draw, sketchpad open and pencil in hand, we're thinking about lots more than just creating a great-looking sofa.

We're thinking about the shapes, sizes and fabrics which are coming into fashion, and those which will always remain classic. We're thinking about quality, and we're thinking about value for money. We're putting ourselves in your shoes and thinking: what sofa would you want?

Part of our success has been down to our continual determination and focus on creating Sofas for Living. We take our design inspiration from exhibitions, galleries, textile mills and anything in the world around us that provides us with creative ideas. All of which is channelled into commercial designs with a recognisably British twist.

Energy efficiency and waste recycling is also high on our priorities for our factory and products. From recycling cardboard and plastics used in the supply and delivery of our raw materials, to the recycling of the wood waste which is a by-product of our wood mill.

We are always striving to become greener and more efficient through constant monitoring of our CO2 emissions, installation of Solar Panels and much more.

Green Credentials

At Alstons, energy efficiency and waste recycling is high on our priorities, from recycling cardboard and plastics used in the supply and delivery of our raw materials, to the recycling of the wood waste which is a by-product of our wood mill.

This is stored in a silo and burnt in a bio-mass boiler, generating low pressure hot water, which we use to heat our factory site.

Optimising raw materials, whether wood or fabric, is a major concern to us here at Alstons. This is why we have invested heavily in CNC controlled machinery with technologies to eliminate waste in these areas, but still maintain our excellent manufacturing standards. Of the waste we do generate, a large proportion is recycled which ensures it does not go to landfill. We are always striving to become greener and more efficient and our goal for the future is to recycle 90% of our waste.

Alstons is committed to reducing its energy consumption, in turn cutting our CO2 emissions. This has been achieved by investing in an energy efficient lighting system with intelligent controls which minimise energy waste in unoccupied areas.

Installed and operating on a section of our factory roof is a 50 KW photovoltaic system (Solar Panels). This generates electricity for our own use and also generates an income through the FITS scheme (Feed in Tariff).

Soil Association Certification have confirmed that Alstons is an FSC® (Forest Stewardship Council®) certified company. Since 1st June 2014 all Alstons products are made with FSC certified wood.

Accreditations

Putting our clients' needs first is in our nature and paramount to the service we provide to our members and customers, but you needn't take our word for it. We are also proud to be ISO 9001 certified - which shows our commitment to quality and continued improvement.

British Furniture Manufacturers (BFM) is a trade association that has represented the interests of the British furniture industry. It is run by members, for members, and the wider industry.

ISO 9001 is a quality management system based on a set of eight principles that guides the way Alstons is run, one of which is a strong focus on the client. As well as having systems in place to ensure our clients' satisfaction, ISO 9001 pushes us to try and exceed their expectations.

FSC's "tick tree" logo is used to indicate that products are certified under the FSC system. When you see the FSC logo on a label, you can buy forest products with confidence that you are helping to ensure our forests are alive for generations to come.

AIS members are diverse in their scale, and how they operate in their markets, but all are proud independent businesses many with a long family history. We share similar values and heritage and are delighted to be a supplier to them.

AIS demand high standards of service and quality from their suppliers, recognised by a prestigious Gold Standard Award. Alstons Upholstery are proud to have received this on several occasions.

Having met the Gold Standard we are eligible to be considered as Upholstery Supplier of the Year and are proud to have received this accolade five times. We see this as an endorsement of the positive relationship we have across the wide AIS membership base.
