NATURAL CORK

*Cork Oak forests have an absorption capacity of up to 32 million tons of CO₂ yearly. What is even more remarkable is that the ability to retain carbon dioxide is also passed on to manufactured cork products, which continue to ensure this function to absorb CO₂. Cork is a living material; it almost literally breathes.

This is one of the findings of a study conducted by a team of researchers from the Forest Research Centre of the ISA - Institute of Agronomy of the University of Lisbon. Eg. A cork wine stopper absorbs 112 grams of CO₂.

WHY RECYCLE?

Cork is an incredible material that has many many uses, from the placemat on your table, to insulation within a rocket, to flooring and all the time it continues to 'breathe' and absorb CO₂.

In recent years the cork harvest yields have been down. Lack of water impacts on the quality and thickness of the bark that can be harvested and we all know that we have experienced hotter drier summers. This is why recycling is so important and one of the reasons it is important to plant more cork oak trees.

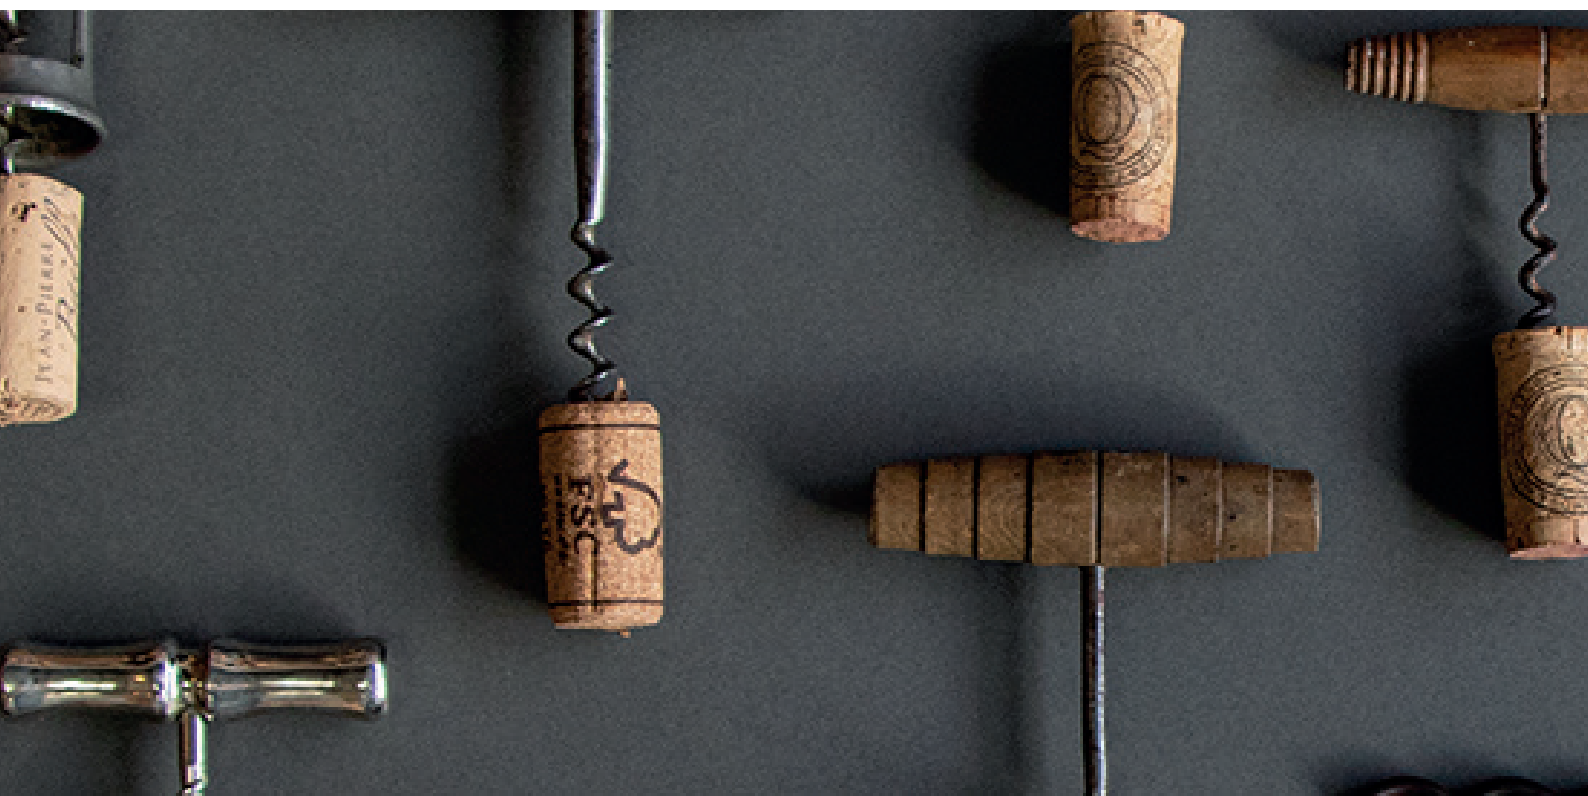

THE IMPACT YOU'LL BE MAKING

By participating in this initiative, you instantly become an essential part of the global effort to reduce waste and promote a circular economy.

Equally important for our future we are pledging to plant Cork Oak trees - for every 100 kilos of cork collected, we will plant one cork oak tree—an emblem of biodiversity preservation and a powerful weapon against climate change. Your involvement will directly contribute to the reforestation and restoration of natural habitats, ensuring a greener and healthier world for future generations. Cheers!

HOW IT WORKS

Once your bin is full, you can rely on us to handle the rest. Simply contact our sales team at sales@loveliga.co.uk, and we'll arrange a pick-up. You can also drop off the cork in person if you happen to be passing by, saving on postage. We plan to store the corks and send them back to Portugal in shipping containers. There's much drinking and collecting to be done!

Many of us love a beach walk - stomping across the sand, breathing in the fresh air, listening to the sound of the waves - it's rejuvenating and invigorating, whatever the weather.

This simple pleasure has been blighted in recent years by the huge amount of rubbish washed up on our shores.

Rubbish that has been discarded in the sea, which can break into smaller pieces but never fully decompose.

In a landfill environment it is estimated to take approx 500 years for plastics to break down, unfortunately wild sea plastic breaks down within years as the natural sea forces rapidly break them down into smaller and smaller pieces.

Micro plastics - smaller than your hand - are eaten by fish, sea creatures and birds. Once inside the fish the plastic breaks down into even smaller 'nano plastics' - some of which can't even be seen.

When we eat the fish the nano plastics enter our bodies and scientists are still researching what affects this will have on our long term health.

Over the last few years we have been funding many beach cleans and much marine research through giving to Sea Changers, to better understand and come up with solutions.

Through these connections and working with scientists and volunteers we have found a way to collect tonnes and tonnes of waste plastic from our sea and from the beaches and turn them into coasters.

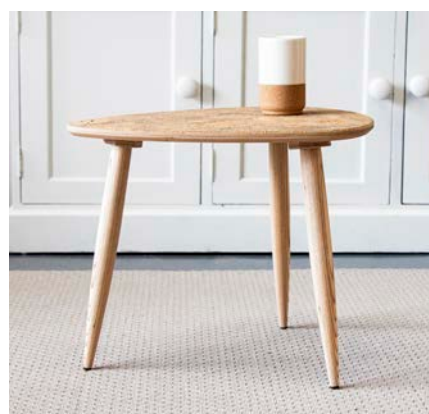

This project will ensure hundreds of tonnes of plastic is taken out of harms way and will create coasters that are practical, raise awareness and offer a solution.

Our Ocean plastic coasters are from 100% reclaimed ocean waste and sea salt. The salt actually helps the plastic blend in the way that it does, giving it a unique look that virgin plastic cannot replicate.

We have launched this collection with our sea blue colour which is made from discarded fishing crates, nets, water bottle tops, buckets and spades - with a pinch of sea salt.
