Hey. Hello. Hi.

Nice to meet you.

The Completist was launched in 2018 by Jana from her small London apartment, after years honing design skills at luxury fashion houses. It quickly expanded from design-led prints to fashion-led stationery, and grew from there. Today, The Completist products are available in 24 countries worldwide and can be found in institutions such as The Barbican Centre and global retailers including Anthropologie.

More than just stationery.

Our bi-annual collection releases are inspired by anything that gives us a dopamine rush - anything from a 1996 Dries Van Noten runway show, to 1960s Saul Bass movie posters. We love art and design and we're always bold about it. Our print collections may look maximalist, but our design philosophy is simple: make pieces that look great on a desk.

It doesn't just look good.

Our layflat planners are made from the highest quality paper stocks. Our ballpoint pens are gold-plated. And the chic 70s-inspired birthday card? Completely recyclable. In short, we're big on creating quality objects, and you can trust us to source the best independent manufacturers to help us. In fact, we make as much as we can on our doorstep - 90% of our range is made in the UK and our products are hand packed in our Peckham studio. So our customers can look to us for pieces they'll love to use (and feel good about using them).

Fresh vibes for SS24.

Our SS24 stationery drop draws inspiration from our recent trip to South Korea and Japan. Think curved architectural lines, hazy shots of soju, playful colourways and retro magnetism. And, as always, a new nostalgia feeling that inhabits our core collection.
