“happiness”

from NODA Industry

We are

A woodworking and processing company located in Okawa City, Fukuoka, the city of furniture. Using the sheet lamination processing technology for furniture and home fittings materials, the company has developed new products and completed "happiness".

Origin of happiness

Kumiko patterns, which are also a motif of Japanese patterns, each shape has a meaning with various wishes such as protection from evil, happiness, and long-lasting prosperity of the family. We named the product "happiness" in the hope that these wishes will come true for the recipients of our products.

Materials

Wood: Medium density fiberboard
(3 mm MDF)

Film: Olefin sheet manufactured by Dai Nippon Printing Co.

Adhesive: CV6205 (Konishi Co., Ltd.)

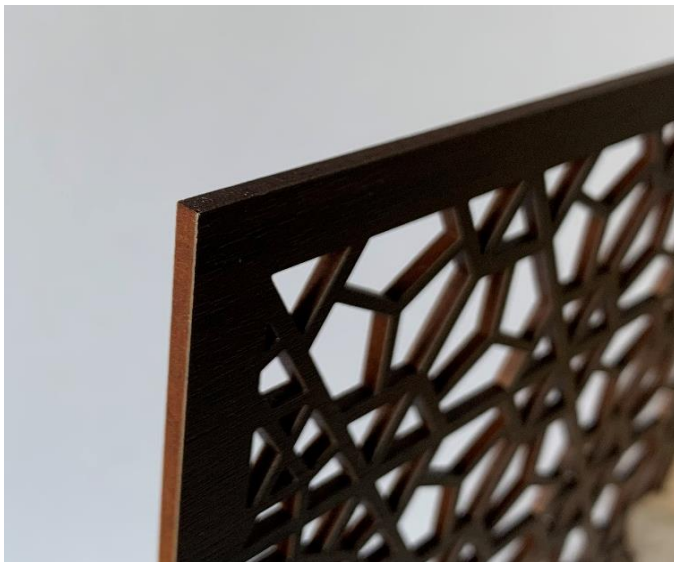

F☆☆☆☆ certified adhesive

About Medium Density Fiberboard (3mm MDF)

So-called wood waste, such as lumber from construction, plywood and lumber offcuts, packaging materials, and forest residues, is chipped and recycled as homogeneous large boards, making it a recycled material with a light forest load.

Regarding regulations on formaldehyde emission, which causes sick building syndrome, MDF is regulated in three levels under the Japanese Industrial Standards (JIS): Four Star (F☆☆☆☆), Four Three (F☆☆☆), and Four Two (F☆☆).

*Note 1

About Olefin Sheets

We mainly use EB olefin sheets from Dai Nippon Printing , a sheet manufacturer that is working to save energy and reduce CO<sub>2</sub> in the manufacturing process.

In addition, the sheet generates almost no hydrogen chloride gas or dioxin during disposal and combustion, making it a safe and environmentally friendly product.
