BLACK POUCH

A black tote bag with the words "WIRES & STUFF" printed in white, bold, sans-serif capital letters. The bag is resting on a white, cylindrical pedestal. To the left, the back of a white chair with dark buttons is visible. The background consists of heavy, gold-colored curtains with a subtle geometric pattern. The lighting is warm and directional, coming from the right, casting a soft shadow of the bag onto the pedestal.

A green canvas tote bag with two handles is lying on a sandy beach. The bag is partially filled, and a red and yellow beach ball is visible peeking out from the top. In the background, several people are standing near a large, dark-colored inflatable object, possibly a kayak or a small boat, on the sand. The ocean and a rocky coastline are visible in the distance under a bright sky.

DISPLAY TIPS TO MAXIMISE SELL-THROUGH

We've tested these ideas with our current stockists and found they really help boost sales:

Keep Products Together

Displaying our pouches and bags as a collection is much more effective than spreading them around the shop. It helps customers visualise how they work together and encourages multi-item purchases.

Stuff and Stack Pouches in Rows

Stuffed pouches not only show off their roomy size, but lining them up in rows also highlights how they can be used together for stylish, functional organisation.

Use Picture Shelves

These shelves are perfect for displaying pouches. They use minimal wall space, look tidy, and allow you to keep extra stock nearby in neat piles.

Hang Tote Bags in Columns or Rows

Displaying totes with the text up high helps catch the customer's eye, even from across the room.

Create Fun Window Displays

A window featuring both bags and pouches together is a proven way to drive interest and foot traffic. Mix and match for a colourful, functional display that draws people in.
