

THE ARBORETUM

ABOUT US

Inspired by the quiet beauty and endless variety of trees, our journey began with a deep appreciation for the natural world. After studying furniture making at college, Josh crafted a few simple wooden Trees as favours for our own wedding in 2012 - and from that small beginning, something special started to grow.

Working from our rural West Sussex workshop, he began experimenting with leftover off-cuts, gradually developing more intricate designs. Over time, those early forms evolved into a distinctive collection of sculptural Trees - each one tactile, characterful, and a handmade homage to nature.

Our Trees have since taken root in homes across the world, and have been featured all over - from BBC's Money for Nothing to Country Living Magazine. From a personal project to a full-time passion, we're proud to share our growing arboretum with the world.
