KEY POINTS

- In October, Xi gave a speech saying China needs to “seize the opportunities” presented by blockchain, in what appeared to be one of the first instances of a major world leader backing the tech.
- Over 500 blockchain projects have been registered with the government.

Privacy concerns feel "much, much smaller" than worrying about "a knife through the chest", says Dame Cressida

London's police chief has defended the use of facial recognition technology, labelling critics "ill-informed".

Dame Cressida Dick said eight criminals had been caught using the controversial live facial recognition cameras.
