Uzma::D
Monica:@Donald bien hecho! :-) Donald H Taylor: Susannah - I love that! :)

Vicky Johnson: live webinars have been going down well in our company but it's also useful to be able to share the recording or share helpful tips from the session for people who couldn't attend

Astrid: I have learned about my own self-management skills

James Booth: I've been taken aback how people have adopted online meetings and now don't expect perfect video and audio on TV interviews. mass adoption made a huge difference

Keith Quinn: @Donald H Taylor excellent

Marina Vicente: I've learned how to do the perfect (online) slime with my students ;)

Donald H Taylor: James - absolutely

Sam: baking brownies and getting fat! :)

Mary Lewis: I watched a sketchnoting online session which has made me want to hone my drawing skills

Emma W: Uzma - that made my day haha

Uzma: @James Booth - that makes the embarrassment a little better. True

James Booth: @Uzma - the internet is never perfect, but often people expect it to be in the past

Uzma: LOL... I'll go a bit easy on him then :)

Virginie Chasseriau: Good afternoon everyone! I learnt to bake baguettes! And I'm very proud :D

Gareth Brown: Uzma - that was brilliant, the human touch Don't worry!

Kate: Hola

Uzma: (multi-tasking with kids in the background)

Annie: hahahaha! Just seen Uzma's kids' comments!! brilliant....

Uzma: So much online development out there

Astrid: Lots of time for introspection

Uzma: *blush*

Donald H Taylor: Sanjeev - it's a bad time to be talking about food. Coming up to tea time in India, Lunch time in UK

Karen Chambers: @James are you anywhere near Deal?

Emma W: A lot of people I've spoken to are using lockdown to review what (and who) is important in life. I've been trying to grow my own vegetables and herbs as I focus on a healthier lifestyle

David B: ha ha ha yes it would. couldn't do that before lockdown, but start with the couch to 5k app then go from there :)

Donald H Taylor: Emma - that sounds great

James Booth: @Karen - no, Meopham area

Sanjeev Kumar: :) Hope you doing well Donald

Donald H Taylor: Sanjeev - yes, thanks. Have been enjoying the conference

Con - Skillslive Learn: Love David

Luke Hemming: networking with a lot of librarians and checking out their resources

Keith Colvin: Hi from a cloudy Maidstone

Uzma: My son feels so bad he's making me a drink! Yeah success!

Donald H Taylor: The hashtag for Twitter: #LTSF20

Sanjeev Kumar: yes, great sessions planned.... thanks

Donald H Taylor: The recording, slides, chat and other supporting documents will be available from next week at: <https://www.learningtechnologies.co.uk/digitalhub>

Con - Skillslive Learn: Don't want to steal David's thunder but you must listen to him on this podcast:

https://open.spotify.com/episode/0PJ0vwTOSChyXJ8JVlrxyq?si=sVp\_HIFwTvmLq\_We0FgZ4w

Justin: do you need a LMS platform or what are your alternatives for digital corporate training

James Booth: @Justin - please can you add your question in the box on the left under the slides, otherwise it might get lost in the general chat

Martin Buursen: Amazing research metrics, David! Very welcome!

Keith Quinn: We've witnessed increased demand, but financial resources lagging behind need

Con - Skillslive Learn: Superb research from David and @Fosway

Carol Ann: Robin Susanne have you downloaded the app software and then clicked on the App option?

James Trew: Really interesting stuff!

Kate: @Keith Have any of your procurement processes been short cut or made any quicker as a result of the pandemic?

Susanne Pollitt: Yes, I have tried numerous times now. Yesterday the app worked fine for me. Today somehow the sound doesn't work

Keith Quinn: The increase in demand has shone a light on a skills gap in digital learning design

Con - Skillslive Learn: My dear friend the MOOC rears its head :)

Hannah: Invested in Zoom

Robin: I've left and re-joined twice now - still an issue. Will the session and associated resources be available to me afterwards.

rachel macdonald: robin - if you are in a CITRIX virtual environment Adobe doesn't work. Come in from your local browser and try again.

Emma W: @Robin - the sessions I've been in have had downloadable slides after the session and apparently the recordings will be available next week

Donald H Taylor: The recording, slides, chat and other supporting documents will be available from next week at: <https://www.learningtechnologies.co.uk/digitalhub>

Robin: Thanks everyone.

James Booth: @Robin - yes, the session is being recorded and will be published on the LTSF 2020 digital hub next week

Justin: any good sources for e learning ecosystem (LMS LXP etc)

Sanjeev Kumar: Justin- Microsoft Teams is going to take over LXP market

Sanjeev Kumar: Microsoft is going to make the learning war interesting

Uzma: Yes, that's what we're using: Teams

Kate: @Justin - the 9-Grid report is a good place to start - the trends section is really valuable <https://www.fosway.com/9-grid/learning-systems/>

Emma W: Has anyone found "must haves" for the user journey? I.e. ability to access completed courses again or certificates for each course

Sanjeev Kumar: is there any learning technology strategy document that can be shared to refer

Alan Jerram: Highly recommend the 9-Grid reports

Helen dudfield: it's all done to output value if it is teaching as well remotely as face to face - current climate do it! however are we good enough as a business in training measurement?

Justyna: very interesting statistic, thank you. How can you assess whether your company's adoption of digital learning is mature or not?

Christine Locher: Corporates would do well to realize they aren't always the fastest in town ;- ) see what people already do and what works well and build on that...

JoJo: @Sanjeev Kumar: interesting what you say about Microsoft teams as ppl are reporting that it's a bit clunky

Keith Quinn: @justin - worth investing time in considering how you might apply xAPI and an LRS as a route to building a learning ecosystem

Uzma: It is.. I really do not like it

Natasia Hieber: lots of great data! will this be shared?

Con - Skillslive Learn: @Sanjeev = that is a very big statement - do you want to rely on MS for all your learning - not me

Justin: assume teams doesn't provide content? like Learningpool

Tom: In my view, the only reason corporations take so long is the endless layers of middle management and red tape combined with a distinct lack of accountability for decision making

Vanessa: agreed Tom

Uzma: @Con - Skillslive learn (hi again), yes Teams is not great, at all... looking for another LMS

Con - Skillslive Learn: Teams has not been taken up as much as MS thought it would be

Nick: Feels like we are becoming more dependant (and accepting of) SaaS (Software as a Service) PAYG (Pay As You Go) models.

Kate: @Natasia this will all be shared - there's a link here for the slides and resources

Kate: <https://www.fosway.com/research/next-gen-learning/learning-technologies-summer-forum-2020/>

Giles: Teams usage is spiking massively...

Helen dudfield: digital step in learning managers and trainers is a barrier to adoption?

Con - Skillslive Learn: Uzma - today's sponsor Docebo is worth a look

Giles: they gained over 40 million business users in April alone.

Sofie: what does curated content cover?

Destinee Deely: Teams is not made to be an LMS

Alan Jerram: @Kate - good to 'see' you!

Tom: @nick Yeah, the SaaS and lowcode services are corrupting the market because "customers want it" but actually they just want good apps in a more reasonable time: so train the staff better

michael halling: @Uzma: Teams can be good if you integrate rosters, attendees, completions etc

Uzma: Thanks @Con - Skillslive Learn

Teresa Rose: @Con - Teams driven by Bersin, as was Workday, as was LXP...I believe that approach often adds to the confusion and appears to be biased

Rick: Teams is good for general meetings and updates, but as a training tool, not great. Far better tools that enable you to make your virtual training engaging and interactive. The learner experience should be at the heart of what you use. Teams isn't quite there yet for me

Uzma: @Micheal halling - yes it is not bad for collaboration but not really as a LMS methinks.. just my opinion

Uzma: There are better things out there

Alan Jerram: @Rick - all down to what you have available. We only have Teams to work with, so have used it to deliver virtual sessions

Kate: @Alan you too *waves*!

Destinee Deely: @Uzma, you are completely right, it does not work the best as an LMS michael halling: Agreed: not on its own. It needs an LMS to drive it

Dawn Smart: @Rick - agreed. Connect, Zoom - great functionality for interaction

JoJo: @Rick I agree with you about Teams

Hannah: Really helpful, thanks David

Emma W: Having used both Teams and Zoom for meetings and seminars - Zoom is absolutely my preference

Nick: So do we need to focus on platforms that allow more tailored and open development and integration?

Con - Skillslive Learn: Teresa - you all need to listen to David's recent podcast

Karen Chambers: doing some training next week and organisation uses Teams. I'd prefer to use Zoom - any thoughts?

Con - Skillslive Learn: David refreshingly honest about LXPs

James Booth: @Emma - did you do anything other than video chat?

Roz: Tom, I agree about the lack of accountability and the red tape.

Con - Skillslive Learn: https:

//open.spotify.com/episode/0PJ0vwTOSChyXJ8JVlrxyq?si=e4m5vwgMSBSnuATcjA-Cq

Teresa Rose: @Con I did on Sunday - John's podcast?

Tom: @Roz thanks!

Beata Kotelko: Zoom is obviously not secure - have they fixed the issues yet? Adobe is my preference, really

Hannah: Thank you for podcast link

Uzma: Yes, but thank goodness we are not going back...

Kim Riddell: we are starting to use webex

Dawn Smart: @Beata - mine too

Emma W: @james booth - we held our AGM on Zoom! Used breakout rooms for voting and had co-hosts to manage questions while speakers presented

Con - Skillslive Learn: Teresa - yes - how good was it

Martin Buursen: are there any best practices on having a LMS in MS teams or office 365?

Rick: Do many of you use WebEx training centre? We like it, but the cost is astronomical compared to others...

Uzma: Online/Digital Learning has moved leaps and bounds

Teresa Rose: @Con - I loved the BS call out. #things I'd love to say lol

Emma W: @Beata Kotelko - apparently it's safe when used with a pin kriti: @Rick - we do use training centre, it is really good

James Booth: Zoom is great for video conferencing, teams is good for internal meetings, Connect is a structured content delivery platform. they are all different

Tom: @Nick Yeah, almost certainly. I've actually been building my own alternative in C++ and Rust at home, to enable better development practices and learning

Teresa Rose: @Con - I liked Rob Briner's post on Teams too. A picture he posted on LI and Twitter

Tom: employer naturally has zero interest unless it's low code

Kim Riddell: Rick we are using it but only 3 licences for 7 of us

JoJo: @Karen Chambers: Zoom gives more room for exploration, interaction and creativity during the learning, Teams.. I'd say more for capturing info after the event to refer to later

Beata Kotelko: @Emma, interesting, I need to check it out. A pity that Teams do not have enough options for remote sessions

Nick Denholm: MS Teams is not a great learning platform as it stands but they clearly have ambition to be a leader in this space. I don't think we could be waiting a while for that to materialise

Virginie Chasseriau: Hi Teresa ! @Teresa Rose

Emma W: I've not enjoyed using Teams - too restricting when having meetings with people from other orgs re. sharing resources

Nick Denholm: *I do think

Teresa Rose: @Virginie - Hi

michael halling: @Emma W: agreed, security is very tight on Teams for those outside your organisation

Gaby: I was on a webinar with a demo from LMS365 and how they are using MS Teams...super interesting! https://www.elearningforce.com/?qclid=CjwKCAjwr7X4BRA4EiwAUXjbt1fRvICsMx9BDDgfOz88uZTqzxo9vo9Qf72IMMLDvj4C4zYGzT785RoCJX8QAvD\_BwE

Giles: @michael - that's down to IT, not teams

Karen Chambers: @JoJo - thanks that's what I thought too

michael halling: @Giles, agreed but that's become a blocker

Anita Page: Thanks @Gaby

Martin Buursen: thanks Gaby!

Alan Jerram: Hi @Anita!

Emma W: @giles - that makes sense. The Teams meetings I've had are with local government but the restrictions have been very frustrating for external orgs collaborating

Andy: We have our own virtual classroom software integrated with our LMS, which is working quite well so far!

Karen Chambers: Thanks @Gaby

Christine Locher: whoa, that diagram.

Uzma: @Andy what classroom software do you use?

JoJo: Teams better for internal training, harder if engaging with other external orgs, to which Adobe and Zoom seem better suited michael halling: Anyone using Google and G-suite for sessions?

Emma W: @michael halling - we use g suite generally but board decided Zoom was best for video chats

Peter Cannings-Bushell: We're trialling Teams for break-out rooms, but it's not yet there - still recommend something like Webex Training Centre for group exercises

Nicole Bauch: @Michael Halling: Yes we use Google for sessions

Christine Locher: YASSSSSS to experience first. People come rattle the toolbox in your face when it isn't even clear yet if you need a new window or a pipe unblocked or a weed killer.

Con - Skillslive Learn: "Not just about a pretty user interface" - this is so important to grasp folks michael halling: @Nicola, are you integrating that with an LMS pls?

Con - Skillslive Learn: Can't wait David....

James Booth: the bid difference between zoom and adobe connect is the repeatability of the content delivery in connect, you set it up and that's part of the content, it's not based around screen sharing

Angela Van Gelder: We are Michael, works fabulous to deliver online classrooms, meet for video calls and the integration of Google Apps

kriti: @Con - I agree con, the software that offers more engagement is important

Beata Kotelko: Speaking of Learning Experience, what is your take on using e-NPS as one of measures?

Keith Quinn: Learning experience/blended learning has to have a focus on learning transfer

Andy: @Uzma Our developers created our own software - I don't want to advertise on here too much but if anyone wants more information they can contact me at andrew@qintil.com (we also have breakout rooms)

JoJo: it's almost like we need a combo of teams, zoom, connect and webex.

Uzma: @Andy ooh cool. Thanks.

Justin: so teams is a collaborative tool not really a learning technology.

Con - Skillslive Learn: @JoJo - yes it can feel that way

Rick: @JoJo - the company that gets it right, will be very successful!

JoJo: @andy how long did it take to develop and is it costly

Karen Chambers: @JoJo - Yes!

Kate: URL is also here <https://www.fosway.com/research/next-gen-learning/learning-technologies-summer-forum-2020/>

Nigel: thanks David, really useful session.

Teresa Rose: @Beata - there is a danger with NPS internally - where else are they able to go? And measures on future behaviour are not easy to predict.

Martin Buursen: Thank you so much , David; most insightful session!

Alan Jerram: @Justin - I think it's what you make it. We see Teams as a good tool to deliver virtual sessions

Kate 2: Thank you!!

Vicky Wheeldon: Thank you!

Uzma: Thanks David

JoJo: @Rick you are telling me! they would be tremendously successful.

Jayne Richards: BRILLIANT!!!

Tony Launchbury: Thanks David

Sarah Slade: we're using a combination of Zoom and FUSE LXP and trying to blend virtual classrooms with digital learning resources

Mo: Thank you

Nicole Bauch: Yes, we combine it with LMS O

Keith Quinn: Thanks David, really interesting presentation

Guillaume Kruger: Thank you so much!

IT: Great @David.. as usual, very informative and practical.

Paul Dearing: excellent - appreciate that

Andy: @JoJo a couple of months, but we're not the biggest company (yet)!

karen: thanks David a really great session!

Bartłomiej Polakowski: Great presentation, very useful

Louise: thank you

Debbie Webb: thank you

Paul Justice: Thanks David

Mary Goudge: Thank you David, an interesting presentation.

Merja AT: Thanks David!

Jenn: Thank you David - very useful!

Andy: Thanks David!

Geert Nijs: thanks David, interesting insights!

Sally: Thanks David, lots to think about!

michael halling: @Nicola Bauch, can I linkedin with you pls as I need to understand how?

Nicole Bauch: Thank you!

Reena: great , thanks David

Sarah Slade: Thanks David

Nicole Bauch: Yes, Michael!

lynn: Thanks David

Sanjeev Kumar: Thanks David

amanda: lots to think about - thank you michael halling: Where are you based

Donald H Taylor: The recording, slides, chat and other supporting documents will be available from next week at: <https://www.learningtechnologies.co.uk/digitalhub>

Victoria Visser: Thanks a lot, dear David :) ....very insightful!

James Trew: Fascinating session, thank you!

Alan Jerram: Thanks @David and @Kate - look forward to reviewing all the new research kriti: Thanks a lot David, interesting insights!

Beata Kotelko: great data, lovely infographics, thank you!

yvonne connolly: thank you

Alan Jerram: Thanks @Don

Justin: seems like there are plenty of LMS and LXP (sometimes glorified LMS) so intrigued where the points of differentiation are? (e.g. content and curation, sector focused)

Kate: @Alan some great stuff coming (although I would say that!)

Con - Skillslive Learn: @Justin on last count I think over 700 LMS providers on the market

michael halling: @Nicola Bauch, where are u based pls so I can find you?

Nick Denholm: Its becoming increasing important that learning experience becomes broader to include skills, talent strategy and careers pathing to ensure employees have a single narrative and experience to own their development

Con - Skillslive Learn: @kate - Can't wait - sounds exciting!

Kate: @Justin that's exactly what this new research is unpacking - looking forward to sharing after the summer

Nicole Bauch: <https://www.linkedin.com/in/nicole-bauch/>

michael halling: :-)

Christine Locher: I love a good mixed metaphor ;-)

Jayne Richards: Sacred cows being thrown out of the window - memorable way of putting it!

JoJo: how many ppl max are you all having in your virtual classrooms?

Keith Quinn: Quick v Well designed - David Keyy (the Learning Guild) talks about the difference between "Emergency online teaching" and longer term learning design and the danger of seeing the emergency response as the new way forward

IT: The short term need to rush things out in a crisis always means cutting the influence of some people. Once companies get to grips with how to manage the new working and learning situations designers will be needed to make learning that gets applied (rather than the old academic style of designing for learning)

sorcha: @JoJo virtual classrooms - I am finding smaller groups work better for engagement so 8-12

Keith Quinn: oops my last post should read "David Kelly"

JoJo: @sorcha: thanks.

Beata Kotelko: @jojo, depending on the type of learning you are planning, 20 max, ideally less than 15

Marie Daniels 2: the skill of collaboration is even more critical now

Anita Page: @Keith Quinn- that sounds interesting - I will definitely take a look at that

JoJo: @Beata Kotelko what do you mean when you say the type of learning? do you mean awareness r versus skills building

Sindhu: A design that force learners to think, reflect, act and re-create

Beata Kotelko: @jojo: more focused on the knowledge versus focused on skills building. For the latter, I would suggest smaller audiences and breakout rooms

James Booth: FYI - today we had over 530 people online in Adobe Connect

sorcha: @Sindhu - love this think, reflect, act, recreate

JoJo: Beata Kotelko- thanks

Keith Quinn: @Anita Page - We interviewed David (and Others) for our recent podcast episodes on the impact of COVID - <https://apple.co/34f2eBw> <https://spoti.fi/33hgLva>

Gaby: Totally agree @MarieDaniels - especially remote collaboration

Sindhu: Sorcha - Yes I love realism and immersive experiences

Con - Skillslive Learn: CD rom learning

Martin Baker: Interactive Video Disc?

Kate: Ha, Martin you're showing your age now ;)

Martin Baker: haha

Uzma: : D

Anita Page: Thanks @Keith

Sonya: Sorry got to shoot, great session. Thank you David and Sarah

Sindhu: Bit size munching

James Booth: I s till remember writing training courses in pre windows MS WORD, and, people were amazed when I gave them the content on a floppy disk

Caroline Singleton: Interactive Video Disk - big shiny records : )

Tom: Posting floppy disc libraries of learning libraries to employees

JoJo: have ppl used connect for smaller groups.. I find the screen sharing aspect to be more limited t than zoom and I connect is better for bigger groups like this conference

Christine Locher: so so true. Most organizations really don't have a content problem (as in, lack thereof...)

Caroline Singleton: I first became involved with distance learning in 1984 when involved with a pilot in interactive video

Sally: @Christine I agree, we have content coming out of our ears!

James Booth: @joJo - the screen sharing in Connect can be high res for smaller groups. but is designed to work on two monitors

Justin: is there anywhere that providers are benchmarked against each other by capability / focus

Bee Hemelryk: Great session - thank you

Tom: I've learned more from video games than I have from the workplace haha

Nick Denholm: Really interesting session, thanks Sarah and David

Charlotte 2: Great session - thank you so much!

Lisa 2: Many thanks

Martin Baker: brilliant... thank you
