Short Bio About Claire

Claire is a disability and EDIB advocate, speaker, founding director of British Veterinary Chronic Illness Support CIC (BVCIS) and veterinary surgeon with over 22 years of clinical experience across all sectors of the veterinary industry. She holds a postgraduate Certificate in Equine Medicine but pivoted back to small animal work after becoming chronically ill with Chronic Fatigue Syndrome (CFS). She now splits her time between locum work and BVCIS

She is a passionate advocate for those with chronic illness, disability and neurodiversity recognising that if we are going to truly tackle the current mental health and burnout culture crisis we need to start considering all aspects of our health and wellbeing. Without including physical health and neurodiversity in the conversation we will always leave people behind.
