Short Bio About Olivia

As well as consultancy EDI work, Liv has worked in a variety of clinical and non-clinical communications roles since qualifying as a vet in 2016. Growing up at multiple intersections of marginalised communities, for the last five years, educating the veterinary profession on how to recognise discrimination, improve diversity and inclusion, and move forward with accessibility. As a Director of British Veterinary Chronic Illness Support (BVCIS) she is championing inclusion for disabled students and staff across the profession, engaging with RCVS, BVA, universities and corporate and independent veterinary employers and various other organisations across the profession to make change happen.
