Welcome

to the World Police Summit 2024

Dubai Police is privileged to host the third edition of the World Police Summit, a significant event that brings together leaders and innovators from the global law enforcement community.

This year, we are set to build upon the achievements of the summit's previous editions, providing a platform for meaningful discussions on the future of public safety and security with an agenda packed with insightful conferences, expert-led panels, and interactive sessions that address the challenges and opportunities facing law enforcement today.

We proudly host over 200 renowned speakers, including influential figures from INTERPOL, the United Nations, and other leading organisations. With more than 20,000 attendees worldwide, we will explore security topics ranging from transnational crime and cybercrime to resilience and sustainability.

The summit features seven thematic conferences, exclusive roundtable discussions for senior police and security leaders, a VIP lounge for private networking, and the World Police Summit Awards that celebrate excellence in policing and serving communities.

As the World Police Summit convenes, we urge all participants and visitors to use this opportunity to learn from one another, share best practices, and forge lasting partnerships that ensure the safety and security of our communities.

Thank you for joining us at the World Police Summit 2024

14.30 – 14.50 Strategic Session | Leadership Keynote | Theatre A+B Legitimacy, Good Governance and Accountability as Cornerstones' to Support of Effective Policing Globally

To be effective, the police must be accepted by, and representative of, the population it is meant to service. Ensuring a balance between effectiveness of police institutions and their accountability to the rule of law, is central to maintain their legitimacy and the trust of the population.

Attendee Insights:

The session will highlight the role to be played by government Ministries, Parliaments, Ombuds-institutions, civil society and the media, but the most important role remains a change of approach and culture within policing itself. A major challenge facing governments today is the concerted, co-ordinated and sophisticated actions of organised crime syndicates.

The Rise of Cyber Crime

Despite extensive efforts by companies, governments, and law enforcement agencies around the world, all forms of cyber crime, including data breaches and ransomware attacks, have been increasing every year. According to several reports, there was a 20% increase in data breaches from 2022 to 2023. In the middle east, ransomware gang activity increased by 77% in that same timeframe. Why has this happened? There are many reasons, but we will highlight three that were identified in our research, and what can be done about each: (1) new types of ransomware attacks, (2) cloud misconfiguration, and (3) exploitation of vendor systems.

Innovating Around the Officer

No innovation lasts forever – a new product or service may get you a few years of growth, but over time competitors catch up and growth slows down. Companies are challenged to continually come up with new ways to innovate. In this talk, David Robertson will discuss the inspiring case study of LEGO, a company with some almost-deadly innovation failures and some stunning successes. At three different periods in its recent history, growth stopped at the company and it had to find new opportunities for growth. In this speech Robertson will talk about LEGO's history of innovation, and why this new growth period may be the company's greatest. He will draw lessons for any company interested in boosting innovation.

Recent Developments in Forensic Biogeographic Ancestry Testing

The presentation introduces the field of Biogeographic Ancestry (BGA) testing and its benefits and limitations to forensic practice. In previous years several molecular genetic tools were developed that generally lend themselves for this purpose, however, little research went into interpretation of the results and harmonization of reporting. Currently, the European DNA Profiling (EDNAP) group investigates these limitations by developing collaborative exercises to benchmark the state-of-the-art of BGA interpretation and develop directions for future guidelines.

Drones conference

DAY 2, 6TH MARCH 2024

Drones are playing a transformative role in shaping today's police forces by providing new capabilities, enhancing operational efficiency, and improving public safety. Today, the use of drones for both legitimate and malicious purposes has rapidly increased.

Join the Drones Conference and explore how next-gen drones are enhancing police operations. Learn new strategies and systematic approaches to incorporate C-UAS technologies to effectively mitigate the risks posed by unauthorized drones while maintaining security and privacy. From emergency missions to crime scene investigations, discover how drones are revolutionizing a multitude of police operations.

DRONES CONFERENCE SPEAKERS INCLUDE:

ROXANA KENNEDY
Chief of Police, Chula Vista Police Department

GARY DARBY
Head of Joint C-UAS Office, Ministry of Defence

DAVID SMITH

Drones as First Responder

Public safety officers have long needed to respond to emergencies with limited details and often with no real-time information about whatever scene they were thrust into. The Chula Vista Police Department (California, United States) pioneered the groundbreaking Drone as First Responder (DFR) concept for drone flights, remotely launched and piloted from a single command center, to proactively respond to calls for service long before ground-based officers.

Anders Martinsen
CEO, UAS Norway

Roxana Kennedy
Chief of Police, Chula
Vista Police Department

Attendee Insights:

Chief Roxana Kennedy will share the Department's strategies and challenges when developing and implementing new technology. She will discuss the importance of community transparency and finding community support, along with practices that have lead to the DFR program flying over 16,000 missions to date (and counting). Lastly, Chief Kennedy will share her visions for the future of DFR programs and how that will continue to revolutionize daily public safety operations around the world.

13.30 – 14.00 Strategic Session | Leadership Keynote | Theatre B Developing Home Team and Whole-Of-Government Leaders in a Polycrisis World: Role Of Home Team Academy

We are living in an interconnected world, whereby major safety and security challenges including transnational crime (e.g. scams, cyber-attacks, international economic crime) and terrorism can become multi-faceted, interwoven and complex. In this regard, HTA will share its perspectives in equipping our Home Team (HT) and Whole-of-Government leaders with the necessary competencies and skillsets in dealing with a diverse spectrum of safety and security challenges. Through our sharing, we hope that it will encourage police and security agencies from across the world to promote and institutionalise the leveraging and sharing of knowledge, experience and insights in crisis management in dealing with crime or other security threats as there are synergies which we could learn from one another.

Proficiency Testing in the Field of Forensic Genetics

Dr. Rer. Nat. Carsten Hohoff
Director, Institute for Forensic
Molecular Genetics

14.00 – 16.00 | 5th March 2024 | Workshop_2 | AI Ain D
Doing Applied Research in Forensic Linguistics – A Focus on Online Child Protection

- Learn underpinning principles and methods for linguistic annotation of chatlog datasets, with a focus on online grooming and offender-to-offender chatlogs in English.
- Discuss and reflect on processes and practices required for adapting linguistic annotations across languages / cultural & professional contexts.
- Learn about the integration of Forensic Linguistics annotations and AI methods, with a focus on developing ethical online grooming classification tools for law enforcement (and other potential users).
- Receive a demonstration of anti-grooming technology tools that have been developed using one or more of the above.

Delegates are not required to have domain expertise in either Linguistics or AI. However, familiarity with academic research processes is highly recommended. The masterclass will be interactive, including working with carefully curated chatlog examples.

Professor, Swansea University

FORENSICS WORKSHOP

WEDNESDAY 6 MARCH 2024

11.30 – 13.30 | 6th March 2024 | Workshop_3 | AI Ain D
Authorship analysis for investigative and forensic purposes

The aim of this workshop is to explain how authorship analysis is currently done in real-life forensic investigations. The simulated case will be based on real-life authorship analysis situations where the owner of a mobile phone denies having written certain chat transcripts containing incriminating evidence. Using a comparison data extracted from the defendant's phone a comparative authorship analysis will be performed to determine the likelihood that the defendant authored the text messages constituting evidence of a crime. The workshop will take the participants from the data extraction to the writing of the expert witness report in order to gain a better awareness of how this work is done in real casework. The first part of the workshop will explain the process theoretically while the second part will show the process step by step using the simulated forensically realistic data set. Participants are encouraged to bring their laptop to the workshop in order to better explore and evaluate the evidence and the results of the analysis in digital format, as the material is too extensive to be printed.

Dr Andrea Nini
Senior Lecturer in Linguistics and Forensic Linguist, University of

WORKSHOP AGENDA FORENSICS WORKSHOP

WEDNESDAY 6 MARCH 2024

14.00 – 16.00 | 7th March 2024 | Workshop_4 | Ajman C
Build Your Own Forensic Age Prediction Model

This workshop aims to empower participants with the knowledge and skills needed to develop accurate age prediction models using DNA methylation patterns. The workshop will provide a comprehensive understanding of linear regression models suitable for age prediction tasks, emphasizing their application in the context of epigenetic data. Participants will gain hands-on experience through an interactive practical session. Additionally, discussions will focus on ethical considerations, challenges, and potential applications of age prediction models based on DNA methylation. By the end of the workshop, participants will be equipped to contribute to advancements in forensic epigenetic research.

Requirements:

- A basic understanding of statistics
- A laptop with free software package R installed.

Expert insights from ATTY. FAYDAH M. DUMARPA

Commissioner, Commission on Human Rights

In the face of the increasing rise of hate crimes and prejudice particularly in the light of growing sentiments of racial and religious discrimination prevailing among communities and amplified by social media platforms, how can law enforcement agencies effectively mitigate the severity of these issues?

Hate crimes and prejudice are major issues for law enforcement because of their impact on victims as well as the community. To address these issues, law enforcement agencies may conduct training that ensure that law enforcement officers receive comprehensive training on human rights, non-discrimination, and cultural sensitivity. Moreover, law enforcement agencies must hold its law enforcement officers accountable for any misconduct related to discrimination or hate crimes.

It is paramount that law enforcement agencies, as duty bearers, do not violate human rights.

Can human rights committees play a crucial role by actively contributing to the formulation of legal measures and adopting a specific approach that ensures legal accountability for those who contribute to or incite violence, hatred, and discrimination?

Yes. The Human rights committees promote the enjoyment of civil and political rights and continue to strive to ensure all the civil and political rights guaranteed by the Covenant can be enjoyed in full and without discrimination, by all people. Having this in mind, human rights committees may encourage State party to maintain in place laws, policies, and practices that explicitly address hate crimes, discrimination, and incitement to violence; to monitor the implementation of State party of laws dealing with hate crimes, discrimination, and prejudice; and to take appropriate positive action when a State party has failed to act to promote and implement existing laws and report on instances of hate crimes and discrimination. Human rights committees may engage with law enforcement agencies to ensure that they are adequately trained and equipped to handle cases involving hate crimes and discrimination. They can promote a rights-based approach with law enforcement.

What is the importance of organizing the World Police Summit, which brings together experts and specialists in law enforcement from various countries and international organisations? Would you urge other law enforcement agencies to attend it?

The police summit is a significant event because serves as a platform for sharing best practices and fostering collaborations between law enforcement agencies and the private sector. One importance of organizing the World Police Summit is the sharing of information on best practices and facilitating networking opportunities among law enforcement professionals. Discussions in the summit may lead into policy development and reforms within law enforcement agencies. In light of these benefits, it would be advisable for law enforcement agencies to consider attending the World Police Summit, especially if the event aligns with their mission and priorities.

The Summit discusses ways to combat transnational organized crime, which requires strong cooperation and intelligence exchange between countries. What role does the Summit play in cementing the cooperation between global police leaders?

The World Police Summit, as a platform for sharing best practices and knowledge, will help law enforcement agencies from different parts of the world to cooperate, collaborate, and coordinate efforts to effectively combat and mitigate the impact of transnational organized crime. One of the sessions in the World Police Summit will underline the global best practices by security services in combating organized crime. This knowledge-sharing will help in adopting effective approaches to combat organized crimes.

Expert insights from DR. FATIMA WAZIRI-AZI

Director-General, National Agency for the Prohibition of Trafficking In Persons

Considering your profound expertise in combating human trafficking, what are the key factors that contribute to the heightened incidence of these crimes in certain regions compared to others?

The heightened incidence of human trafficking in certain regions compared to others can be attributed to a complex interplay of various factors comprising:

Socio-economic and socio-political factors: Regions with high levels of poverty and limited economic opportunities often see a higher incidence of human trafficking. Individuals in economically disadvantaged situations may be more susceptible to promises of better jobs and improved living conditions, making them vulnerable targets for traffickers.

Conflict and Instability: Regions experiencing political instability, armed conflict, or civil unrest create environments conducive to trafficking.

Lack of Legal Frameworks and Enforcement: Regions with inadequate or poorly enforced anti-trafficking laws are more likely to experience higher rates of trafficking.

Weak legal frameworks and lax enforcement create an environment where traffickers can operate without fear of consequences and impunity.

Corruption and Weak Governance: High levels of corruption within government institutions and law enforcement agencies contribute to the flourishing of human trafficking networks. Corrupt officials may be complacent by turning a blind eye to trafficking activities or actively facilitate them.

Gender Inequality and Discrimination: Regions where gender inequality is prevalent often see higher rates of trafficking, particularly in the form of exploitation of women and girls. Discriminatory practices and limited opportunities for women may push them into vulnerable situations.

Lack of Education and Awareness: Limited access to education and awareness programs increases the vulnerability of populations to trafficking. Uninformed individuals are more likely to fall for false promises or be unaware of the signs or red flags of trafficking.

Migration and Displacement: Regions with high levels of migration, whether internal or cross-border, can be prone to trafficking. Displaced populations, including refugees and internally displaced persons, are often more vulnerable to exploitation.

Demand for Cheap Labor and Commercial Sexual Exploitation: Regions where there is a high demand for cheap labor or commercial sexual exploitation are more likely to attract traffickers. Demand-driven factors play a crucial role in the perpetuation of trafficking networks.

Undoubtedly, regions afflicted by poverty, armed conflicts, and wars, among other factors, witness a worsening of human trafficking rates. How can international cooperation between law enforcement organizations play a pivotal role in reducing these rates and effectively combating the scourge of human trafficking?

International cooperation between law enforcement organizations is crucial in reducing human trafficking rates and effectively combating this global scourge because it enhances the capacity of nations to address the transnational nature of trafficking networks by:

Information Sharing and Intelligence Collaboration: Law enforcement agencies from different countries can share intelligence and information on trafficking networks, perpetrators, and emerging trends. This collaborative approach helps build a more comprehensive understanding of the global trafficking landscape.

Joint Investigations and Operations: Coordination in planning and executing joint investigations and operations allows law enforcement agencies to pool resources, expertise, and manpower. This approach is particularly effective in targeting trafficking networks that operate across borders.

Cross-Border Legal Frameworks: Developing and strengthening cross-border legal frameworks and mutual legal assistance and extradition agreements facilitates the seamless transfer of suspects and ensures that traffickers cannot evade justice by moving across jurisdictions.

Capacity Building and Training: International cooperation enables the sharing of best practices, training programs, and capacity-building initiatives. This ensures that law enforcement personnel are equipped with the skills and knowledge needed to effectively combat trafficking.

Victim Protection and Support: Collaborative efforts extend to victim protection and support. Countries can work together to provide safe havens for victims, ensuring their physical and psychological well-being. This includes facilitating repatriation, rehabilitation, and reintegration programs.

Public Awareness Campaigns: Joint efforts in public awareness campaigns raise awareness about human trafficking globally. Such campaigns educate the public on recognizing the signs of trafficking, deterring potential traffickers, and fostering a culture of vigilance.

Diplomatic Engagement and Political Will: Diplomatic engagement at the international level and political will from governments are critical. Countries can engage in diplomatic discussions to foster collaborative efforts, allocate resources, and enact policies that prioritize anti-trafficking measures.

The World Police Summit could serve as a platform for enhanced collaboration in the fight against transborder crimes which may lead to several anticipated outcomes

Additionally, what outcomes do you anticipate from the upcoming World Police Summit?

The World Police Summit could serve as a platform for enhanced collaboration in the fight against transborder crimes which may lead to several anticipated outcomes:

Information Exchange: Law enforcement agencies from different countries may share valuable information, strategies, and insights as well as proffer facilitate a collaborative environment.

Policy Coordination: Countries may align their policies and legal frameworks to strengthen the global response to transborder crimes. Collaborative efforts could lead to the development of standardized approaches, common protocols, and shared good practices.

Capacity Building: Knowledge-sharing sessions could enhance the skills of officers involved in transborder efforts.

Public Awareness Initiatives: The summit may emphasize the importance of global public awareness campaigns to educate communities about the realities of several transborder crimes. Collaborative efforts could amplify the impact of awareness initiatives, fostering a sense of collective responsibility.

Diplomatic Commitments: High-level diplomatic discussions at the summit may result in renewed commitments from participating nations to prioritize the fight against human trafficking. Agreements and commitments made during the summit can pave the way for sustained international cooperation.

Networking and Relationship Building: Informal discussions and networking opportunities at the summit can foster stronger relationships between law enforcement officials. Building personal connections can enhance future collaboration and cooperation.

VOLLEE – DIGITAL ASSESSMENT PLATFORM

Terawe Technologies

Vollee offers deep discovery and association capabilities across large volumes of unstructured data that delivers data-driven insights and predictive modeling to empower you with clear, focused direction for personalized improvement and growth plans. Using world-leading AI platforms and cognitive services, Vollee creates a fully indexed discovery fabric out of video, audio, image, and document archives that fills the gaps of a given search or query with key missing links and references that may have eluded traditional search methods. Organizations can then use Vollee's pre-built operational models and deployment templates with their data estate to increase training efficacy, optimize operations, accelerate investigations, and cultivate a more productive workforce.

UAV DETECTION AND IDENTIFICATION

Beijing Lizheng Technology Co., Ltd

This man-portable product is used for UAV detection and identification is easy to deployment. Mobile compatibility, early warning and positioning with trajectory tracking. When a drone enters defense area, this device can raise the alarm, determine the real-time location of the target and pilot through CRPC Message-level protocol cracking, and record the trajectory of the UAV.

DRONE SOLUTION WITH GLOBALL AND GUARD

RAD Practical Equipment and Devices Trading LLC

Emergency Response Kits: Our emergency response kits, such as the GLOBall kit, are comprehensive solutions equipped with essential tools for rapid response scenarios. These kits include GLOBalls DR-L, Gateways for long-range wireless transmission, laptops with ISYmap Software and Kartotrak One, among other essential components.
