Safe in our hands

Our mining origins

For over 100 years, we have developed our specialist skills, experience and knowledge gained from working in difficult and potentially dangerous environments, to affect the rescue and escape of mineworkers underground.

Created in the early 20th century to respond to emergencies in the UK Mining Industry, we are recognised within the Mines Regulations 2014 as a specialist rescue services provider. We continue to provide rescue arrangements to mines across the UK and maintain operational readiness of our people and equipment. We also train 'part time' rescue teams in both the coal and non-coal mining sector and act as a consultant on the effectiveness of mines rescue arrangements internationally.

Training

For mining, we offer a range of courses that meet British Standard requirements and we are a Mineral Products Approved Centre (MP Awards) for mining and shot firing training courses. We have a shot firing simulator enabling delegates to simulate the shot firing process in a mine, including charging of shot holes to specification, undertaking pre and post firing checks and scenarios for dealing with misfires.
