IN CONVERSATION

The pandemic has seemingly tipped the odds to the cyber adversaries' favour, seeing that they have exploited the lack of preparedness in most companies and government agencies. To counter this growing cyber risk, we need to stay current on improvements. A retired FBI Deputy Director recommends investing in intelligence, equipping the workforce, and developing cyber warriors.

An intelligence-informed approach leads to better decisions from cyber leaders, especially because data is at stake and is also the key to evaluating trends, problems, and solutions.

THE GOVWARE - ICE71 STARTUP PITCH PIT IS BACK

In its second run, the Startup Pitch Pit will feature 4 up-and-coming cybersecurity Startups from ICE71's community as they pitch their solutions to a panel of infosecurity industry veterans.

The goal of the Pitch Pit is for Startups to get real-world feedback and gauge potential interest in their cybersecurity solutions. If you are an organisation looking for innovative cybersecurity solutions or an aspiring cybersecurity Startup searching for insights on how your product will fit the market, this session is not to be missed!
