

PRESS RELEASE

Clerkenwell Design Week in the Hushoffice showroom – a must-see stop

On 20-22 May, Clerkenwell Design Week takes place in London. It is a design festival, one of the most important events for architects, designers, and other people associated with or interested in design. This year's edition could not miss the Hushoffice brand, which invites to its showroom during the event. In addition to the opportunity to learn about the brand's latest acoustic solutions and discuss with experts on the arrangement and equipment of workplaces, more activities await visitors to the showroom.

Clerkenwell Design Week is a natural opportunity to present the latest solutions to the UK market, one of our key European markets. This year, we will certainly boast about new booths for one person, i.e. hushFree.S.Hybrid and hushFree.XS and hushFree.S create an ideal combination supporting individual work in offices. In Hushoffice showroom, there will also be solutions promoting accessibility in the workplace, such as hushFree.Access.L is adapted to people with disabilities, including those in wheelchairs or booths designed for working with a team, such as hushFree.M. Nevertheless, the presentation of products itself is not the only point of our presence during CDW. Still, the feedback of our guests and the opportunity to discuss with people for whom design and functionalities are among the most important benefits of the products. Hushoffice specialists will be happy to present their view on contemporary trends related to the equipment and arrangement of modern flexible workplaces – comments Mateusz Barczyk, senior brand manager at Hushoffice.

The Hushoffice showroom is located at 33 St John's Ln, London EC1M 4BJ. Access to the showroom for Clerkenwell Design Week participants is free. Participants can also book a meeting with Hushoffice specialists via the Clerkenwell Design Week website.

MEET THE HUSHOFFICE PHILOSOPHY – FEEL FREE TO JOIN

As part of the CDW event, the Hushoffice brand has prepared two special meetings for the participants, which will take place in the Hushoffice showroom.

On May 20th and 21st, 2025, a power speech "Sounds like a great place to work?" will be given by Dr. Chris Arnold, founder of Diversity Lab, a global collective of highly achieving neurodiverse people. He is also a former Creative Director of Saatchi & Saatchi, founder of the Creative Orchestra agency, an experimental musician, and audio branding expert. Chris Arnold is a popular public speaker due to his dynamic and inspirational presentation style and seeks to challenge his audience to think differently. He has spoken globally at over 200 top conferences and events.

Dr. Chris Arnold will enrich the event with a speech on office space design, maintaining appropriate acoustics, support with the arrangement of neuroatypical people, and how office design and arrangement can affect its users.

On May 21st there will also be a "Hushoffice Happy Hour Event", where in a less formal atmosphere, with a good drink and snacks accompanied by music, you can meet and talk about flexible design and equipment of office spaces with our experts.

The number of places for both meetings is limited, and registration occurs via the CWD website.
