Ro Sham Beaux to Debut at Clerkenwell Design Week 2025

Showcasing Bespoke, Sustainable Lighting at Iconic London Event

Charleston, SC (April 2025) – Ro Sham Beaux, the acclaimed luxury lighting atelier renowned for handcrafted, sustainably-focused luminaires, is pleased to announce its debut at Clerkenwell Design Week, held May 20–22, 2025. The prestigious London design event will see Ro Sham Beaux introduce its latest collection of bespoke chandeliers, pendants, and sconces at the historic House of Detention venue.

Since launching in 2010, Ro Sham Beaux has built a reputation for elegant, artisanal lighting crafted through thoughtful collaboration and meticulous craftsmanship. Each beaded chandelier is handmade to order by skilled artisans in Ro Sham Beaux's Charleston, South Carolina atelier, featuring crystal, quartz, and beads made from post-consumer recycled glass bottles—demonstrating a commitment to sustainability and circularity.

"Clerkenwell Design Week provides the ideal platform for us to share our vision of sustainable luxury and artisan craftsmanship with the international design community," says Ann Yancy, founder and CEO of Ro Sham Beaux. "We're thrilled to connect with designers, architects, and creative leaders who value thoughtful design and meaningful sustainability."

Visitors to Ro Sham Beaux's exhibit at Clerkenwell can explore customized lighting solutions firsthand, discovering how co-creation ensures emotional durability and a personal connection to each fixture.
