

Brisa: the new pouf designed by Yonoh Studio

Yonoh Studio, in collaboration with Pattio, has not conceived just any old pouf: it has managed to make flexible design shapes and bodies move and interact with the user for whatever they might need, for whatever they live for. And it does so as a seat or a support table capable of turning a casual moment into a breath of air full of creativity that makes its mark: Pattio's new product, Brisa, is all this.

With inspiring shapes and images, the extensive Brisa range, with four types of poufs - with a wooden base, the option of a handle or structure with wheels-, 22 fabrics and 5 dimensions, make this product unique for each place.

Mobility and agility go hand in hand with Brisa, thanks to the option of including wheels, made of steel with double polyamide wheels, or the innovative handle made of Ubrique leather, which allow this product to be taken to any space in an office or contract area at any time.

Pattio offers new design styles and casual encounters among the work team. With its inspiring image and an extensive product range, Brisa adapts to any space, providing balance and function.
