

Pausa: the sofa that generates synergy and sociabilization

Pausa has been launched. It is the new creation by Simon Pengelly, Pattio's venture to create a sofa that seeks calm, where everything is clearer, more possible, closer. With Pausa, spaces that generate more possible, creative and sociable inexplicable synergies capable of stopping you, to start from a new, different, better point. Waiting areas in offices, a hotel or an institution that, along with such warm materials as oak or unique textiles, make the spaces plural, friendly and attractive areas.

As for customisation, Pausa offers endless possibilities: one, two or three-seater sofas, with or without arms, as well as the possibility of arms at each end or just one to configure it further. Pausa presents warm materials, such as beech, oak and exclusive textiles, which elevate the product's level. Moreover, great care has been taken with the seating proportions, as regards depth and width, the comfort of the arms and the selection of the seat and backrest densities.

Both the Pausa frame and the Pausa platform can be made of solid beech or oak, although in the case of the platform it will be pine if the upholstered version is selected; you can choose from a wide variety of fabrics that have been carefully selected from among the most prestigious international manufacturers.

Pausa is thus Pattio's solution for fitting out spaces with an elegant, timeless design, with optimum comfort that offers added value to office and contract spaces where synergies can be generated, socialising can be encouraged, and a pleasant wait can be had.
