Beloved British furniture maker Bisley is to open the doors of its new Home Space showroom during Clerkenwell Design Week (23-25 May 2023) exploring the theme of People, Wellbeing and Space – at Home and at Work.

Making its debut at Clerkenwell Design Week will be the Bisley Home Space, a brand new area of the showroom dedicated to Bisley's growing range of products for the home. A key festival highlight will be an installation created by interior design writer and stylist Cate St Hill. Bisley x Cate St Hill explores Fern, Bisley's acclaimed collection of stylish steel lockers, and new pieces for spring 2023 including the versatile Reef wall-mounted shelf, with a special area of the showroom curated by Cate in her distinctive calm, neutral style.

"I'm excited to be styling an area of the new Bisley Home Space to show how our interiors can help support wellbeing and uplift our mood," said Cate of the collaboration. "I like to think of interior design as a bit like therapy for the home; I believe that our spaces have the power to make us feel better. With Bisley's new Fern collection there really is something for everyone, whether you want to create a calm sanctuary with off-whites and neutrals or add a punch of colour with uplifting greens and blues." Cate will appear at an 'in conversation' lunchtime event at the showroom at 12.30 on Wednesday 24 May, discussing the relationship between wellness and interiors.

Jeanine Goddard, Creative Director at Bisley, said: "From wellness at home to the workplace, we have transformed and expanded our showroom to create an uplifting and positive atmosphere, with sustainably crafted furniture and storage solutions. We firmly believe that the products in your home can encourage a sense of wellbeing, calm, and creativity."

Also on display in the main part of the showroom will be a freshly-presented selection of Bisley furniture for the office, home office and beyond. Representing the best in design, craftsmanship and innovation will be the flexible Outline collection, stylish Bridge configurations, and a range of locker solutions from the neat Kubbi range to LockerWall, a fully customisable locker system which demonstrates the very latest fully operating smart locking system by valued Bisley partner, Keynius, among many other pieces.

Richard Costin, CEO of Bisley, said: “We’re proud to introduce our new showroom extension at Clerkenwell Design Week this year, and our ever-growing collection of furniture solutions for all areas of the workplace and the home. Wellbeing is of great importance to all of us at Bisley. Our commitment to calm, healthy, well-organised spaces begins with our culture as a business, and feeds directly into the products we design and manufacture for all of our valued customers. We look forward to seeing you in May.”
