

Launch of the New "SUPERMINIMAL" Design Curtain at SPAZIOAREA in Rome

Rome - On March 20th, in the artistic heart of Rome, Via Margutta, Artendis unveiled its latest innovation in interior design: the "SUPERMINIMAL" curtain. The event took place at SPAZIOAREA, an exhibition space curated by architect Anna Caridi, known for hosting avant-garde art and innovative designs.

The "SUPERMINIMAL" curtain represents the pinnacle of modern design, characterized by clean lines and simplicity that merges with efficiency and elegance. This new product from Artendis is set to redefine standards in the Window Fashion industry, offering a solution that combines privacy, light control, and an unprecedented minimal aesthetic.

The launch event drew a select crowd of designers, architects, artists, and design enthusiasts, who had the opportunity to explore the features and unique style of "SUPERMINIMAL". During the evening, guests were able to interact directly with Loris Di Francesco, the creator of this extraordinary product, and discover how it can transform any space.

"We are proud to introduce 'SUPERMINIMAL' to the world," declared Loris Di Francesco. "This curtain is not just a design element, but a true statement of intent on the direction that Window Fashion is taking: towards functional simplicity and discreet elegance."

For more details on "SUPERMINIMAL" and other information about the event, please visit the Artendis website at www.artendis.com.

S U P E R M I N I M A L

Spazioarea – Via Margutta - Roma

