

sixteen3 Reimagines Commercial Interiors with Exciting Launches and Collaborations at Clerkenwell Design Week 2024

sixteen3, the UK-based commercial furniture manufacturer known for its innovative designs and commitment to sustainability, is gearing up to make a bold statement at this year's Clerkenwell Design Week. With the unveiling of six new product ranges centred on infusing personality and luxury into commercial spaces, updates to existing favourites, and an exciting collaboration with renowned wallpaper designer Erica Wakerly, sixteen3 is set to have its most inspiring CDW to date.

Unveiling Innovative Designs and Updates

At CDW 2024, sixteen3 will introduce six new product ranges to transform this year's upcoming interior spaces:

Piper: A contemporary throwback to a modernist classic, the Piper range infuses a timeless cantilever silhouette with soft, creative shapes and upholstered comfort. Available in three versatile heights, Piper offers tailored seating solutions for various settings, from traditional meetings to high collaborative areas.

Romy: Designed for optimal comfort and contemporary grandeur, the Romy lounge chair range comes in mid or high back options. Whether for private conversations or collaborative spaces, Romy's refined aesthetics and plush upholstery ensure a luxurious seating experience.

Eden: Bridging the gap between biophilia and soft furnishings, Eden planters bring nature indoors in a stylish and functional way. Available in various shapes and heights, these upholstered planters offer endless possibilities for creative arrangements, enhancing interiors while fostering a deeper connection with nature.

Ada: Characterised by luxurious detailing and versatile fabric combinations, the Ada ottoman range adds a touch of elegance to any interior. With options for assorted sizes and feet styles, Ada invites customisation and creativity, serving as a versatile accessory piece or focal point.

Millie: This versatile shelving range boasts sleek lines and modular design, providing effortless storage solutions that seamlessly integrate into any environment. With options for different heights and cupboard bases, Millie offers unparalleled versatility and style.

Betto: Featured on display for the first time since its launch in February, Betto Tables are designed for large groups and collaborative work environments. With seamless shapes and multiple height options, these tables offer a flexible and inviting space for gatherings, available in a wide range of colour, size, height, and finish combinations.

Additionally, sixteen3 unveils updates to existing ranges, including the new round shape for the Milo table and the expansion of the Artus range to feature the innovative Artus Connect AV wall and the Artus Nest single seat work pod, catering to the evolving needs of modern workspaces.

Introducing the sixteen3 x Erica Wakerly Collaboration

A standout feature of sixteen3's showroom for CDW 2024 is their pop-up collaboration with acclaimed wallpaper designer Erica Wakerly. By transforming the central meeting room into an immersive pop-up experience, the space seamlessly merges Wakerly's debut fabric collections—Scoop and Buzz—with sixteen3's upholstered furniture pieces. The result is an otherworldly installation, fusing art and design to enchant visitors and ignite their imagination.

Redesigned Showroom for a Sophisticated & Eclectic Experience

To complement the exciting new launches and collaborations, sixteen3 has once again redesigned its showroom for this year's CDW. Embracing a sophisticated and eclectic atmosphere, the redesigned space blurs the boundaries between hospitality, workplace, and residential interiors. With meticulous attention to detail and a keen eye for aesthetics, the showroom sets the stage for an unforgettable journey through the world of commercial interiors and furniture design.

"We are excited to welcome everyone to our updated showroom to see our latest creations and collaborations this CDW" says Paul Chamberlain, Managing Director of sixteen3. "From our diverse new product ranges to our immersive collaboration space, this year's showcase promises to be an unforgettable experience. We invite visitors to join us and discover the future of commercial interiors."
