

Koolique is redefining the art of champagne service with its truly unique cooler

Koolique will unveil the first Champagne cooler of its kind, featuring six integrated glass holders offering an effortless and elegant solution for serving champagne.

The Koolique Champagne Cooler addresses common challenges in traditional champagne service, such as balancing glassware and making multiple journeys. Its unique design allows hosts to effortlessly carry everything needed in one seamless trip, enhancing efficiency and presentation.

"We've created a product that seamlessly blends the worlds of Hospitality, Lifestyle, and Art together," said Eric MacDonald, Founder of Koolique and a 20-year hospitality industry veteran. "It's a functional piece that elevates the champagne experience, serving as the perfect cooler to showcase a special bottle while adding an artistic touch to the enjoyment of sparkling wine."

The cooler's elegant design and practical functionality are expected to resonate with interior designers, art collectors, hospitality venues, and champagne enthusiasts. Its sturdy and compact design ensures exceptional performance in various settings, from garden parties to yachts.

Koolique aims to expand its product line with several exciting innovations in the coming months, including collaborations with other companies to develop bespoke coolers aligned with specific brand identities.

About Koolique

Koolique is at the forefront of innovative bottle-serving solutions, combining functionality with artistic design. Founded by Eric MacDonald, the company draws on extensive hospitality experience to create products that enhance the champagne service experience. For more information, visit www.koolique.com.

Contact Information:

Eric MacDonald

Founder, Koolique

Eric@koolique.com

07478721304

The Brigg's Building, 2-4 Southgate Road, London, N1 3JJ