

Express Küchen Premieres at Clerkenwell Design Week: Innovative German Kitchen Solutions for the UK Market

Express Küchen, a dynamic and rapidly growing kitchen company from Germany, is excited to announce its first-ever appearance at Clerkenwell Design Week in London. As part of the nolte Group, Express Küchen manufactures 100% of its products in Germany, thereby ensuring a high level of safety and reliability in terms of quality. For the company, “Made in Germany” is more than just a slogan - it is part of its DNA.

Attendees who are interested are warmly welcome to arrange a visit to one of our UK showrooms in London or Wrexham, where they can experience our kitchens in person, explore our range of solutions, and discuss potential business partnerships in person.

International partner for trade and project business

In addition to its successful collaboration with traditional kitchen retailers, Express Küchen is primarily a specialist in contract business. More than 1,000,000 cabinets are produced annually at the Melle site, which corresponds to around 500 kitchens per day.

With trading partners in more than 60 export countries, Express Küchen has established itself as a trusted supplier for project and retail business - efficiently, reliably, and competitively.

Strong products for strong markets

The Express Küchen portfolio includes both modern and shaker-style kitchen solutions. The company offers classic kitchens with handles as well as handleless concepts under the SystemLine range. A variety of collections, ranging from matt anti-fingerprint and textured to high-gloss surfaces, allows Express Küchen to target different groups effectively.

The product range is further complemented by well-designed utility rooms and living space solutions, enabling holistic room concepts. This results in strong-selling, market-oriented solutions that can be flexibly adapted to the diverse requirements of both retail partners and international project business.
