

Social Spaces Launches the Havana Collection by Jo Day

Social Spaces is proud to present the Havana collection; an elegant new range designed in collaboration with renowned furniture designer Jo Day of Rivr. Launching at Clerkenwell Design Week, Havana celebrates the timeless craftsmanship of classic upholstery while capturing the vibrant spirit and warmth of its namesake city.

Defined by graceful lines, generous proportions, and a refined sense of structure, Havana blends traditional elegance with contemporary confidence. The collection's fluent piping detail traces each curve with precision, introducing movement and personality without overwhelming its classic foundation. The result is furniture that feels both luxurious and expressive, crafted to elevate any modern interior.

The Havana collection includes an armchair, sofa, ottoman, and coffee tables, thoughtfully designed to complement one another or stand proudly alone. Each piece reflects Social Spaces' commitment to quality, comfort, and design integrity.

Designer Jo Day, who brings over three decades of experience in manufacturing and design, infuses Havana with her hallmark principles of sustainability and purpose. Her work is guided by a belief that great design should be accessible, meaningful, and environmentally responsible. From material selection to production processes, Jo ensures each creation minimises waste while maximising impact.

This collaboration embodies Social Spaces' vision of inspiring connection through design. Furniture that encourages people to gather, engage, and feel at home in any setting.

The Havana collection by Jo Day will be unveiled at Clerkenwell Design Week 2026, where visitors can experience the range up close and meet the designer behind the concept.
