MEET THE ARTIST BEHIND MOSSART

John was born in Ledbury, Herefordshire. He is a family man with four daughters and wife Helen. They run their business from their home just outside Ledbury.

After discovering he had a natural talent for carving, what began as a hobby soon became John's vocation. John's work is inspired by the Art Nouveau movement and follows their lead in finding his themes from his love of nature. He spends hours studying and appreciating natural animal and plant forms.

SCULPTOR

He now produces wildlife wood-carvings, wine racks root sculptures, wall art, and has been creating the world's first stainless steel and copper mixed water features for over 20 years. In 2016 he designed and launched another first, the Titanium Range of mixed metal sculptures. Everything is individually hand made using a variety of methods, these include traditional mallet and gouge wood carving, and repoussé work.

As his collection grows so does his customer base. Visitors are welcome to come and see John at work, at his home workshop, and take a wonder through his display garden and galleries, where visitors can discover some of his unique designs.

John's first exhibition was at the Malvern RHS show over 20 years ago. John now regularly exhibit at a number of shows throughout the UK, and his sculptures have found homes all over the world - from Malvern to Moscow!
