

ISO 14001 Certification

Reduce waste and protect our environment

ISO 14001 is an effective, credible and popular Environmental Management System (EMS) Standard, with over 300,000 certificates issued across the world.

Certification from a UKAS-accredited certification body will help you address your environmental concerns, reduce waste, save money and strengthen your reputation.

0120

What is ISO 14001?

Every responsible business leader has concerns about how their company's activities are impacting on the environment. Water use, energy use, pollution and waste are some factors that may negatively affect your local, national and international environment. These factors may also reduce your profitability and reputation if not managed effectively.

ISO 14001 is a framework to help your organisation address these issues. It prescribes controls that should be in place for you to have an Environmental Management System that is right for you and your context.

Centre for Assessment provides certification to ISO 14001 via a comprehensive audit of your Environmental Management System. We will help ensure that the environmental issues that affect your business are managed responsibly.

How can ISO 14001 benefit your organisation?

There are many reasons why you should choose to implement ISO 14001 into your business.

Here are just a few:

- win more contracts
- reduce your negative impact on the environment
- increase customer trust
- comply with international legislation
- develop a top-down culture around sustainability
- become champions of environmental management
- reduce waste
- safeguard your reputation and mitigate risk
- contribute to the drive towards net zero
- make environmentally responsible decisions

Why should you work with CFA?

Centre for Assessment has many years' experience working with ISO 14001. We are a UKAS-accredited, ethical and approachable certification body with a passion for meeting the needs of our clients.

With our experienced, expert team of auditors located across the UK and beyond, Centre for Assessment can support your organisation's journey towards achieving ISO 14001 certification.

Is ISO 14001 right for you?

ISO 14001 is available to practically any organisation, of any size and in any sector.

If your organisation wants to ensure it complies with international legislation and reduce its negative impact on the environment, ISO 14001 is for you.

ISO 14001 is particularly important if your business has identified potential risks to environmental welfare and if you are looking to reduce costs linked to environmental mismanagement.

How much does it cost?

Our fees are calculated based on a number of factors, including how many people work for your organisation and the number of sites from which you operate.

A member of our friendly Business Development team will be happy to talk you through the costs for your organisation or, if you prefer, you can complete an application form to receive a detailed, no-obligation audit and certification proposal. Just fill in a form on our website or give us a call.

For more details contact us:

T: 0161 237 4080

E: sales@centreforassessment.co.uk

W: centreforassessment.co.uk

