

NAMJAI

Curry paste was a household to a household item, everyone makes their inherited recipe but no one ever thought of standardizing it or even sell it. In 1977 while still operating from the Chinatown shopfront (now expanded to number 15), then unbranded 'Namjai' was hired to make OEM product for a large order of up to 10,000 kg. The export is for Thai workers in the Middle East which guide the brand how to handle a large scale order effectively in a limited space which we continue to do so until the present. Hongkong, Taiwan and Singapore also receive its first lot of shipment in a few following years after local vendor introduces the product via hand-carry luggage.

While being able to manage to its increasing order, Namjai had to relocate from its two-room row house to its current location in 1979. where it registered as Curry & Spice Co., Ltd. With larger production capacity and industry-standard facility, Namjai continues to expand its reach.

In 1983 the founder of this growing company passed away and was succeeded by her youngest son and his older sister as a business partner. The siblings who cared for and helped their mother with the business since they were young is to lead this expanding company together with her son helming the company and his sister to advise. The sister has experienced living and working abroad while the brother knows the in and out of the agricultural trade; it seems appropriate to say that the future seems less than uncertain.

In 1984 the brand had refined its production method. It was able to produce 100% preservative-free product that can be stored unopen in Thailand's hot and humid climate for 2-3 years across the whole range, which ease the stocking capabilities of its distributor.

In 1988, after expanding its production capabilities along with more thorough ingredient inspection, Namjai started to sell in a modern supermarket and is the first curry paste brand to elevate this humble household product to the sparkling new shelf of these new establishments (The Mall, MBK, Foodland and Central). The increasingly tight quality control keeps high, and the product can stay on the shelf as long as they promised to last.

1995 in Namjai first appeared on the shelf of the United Kingdom leading supermarket (Selfridges, Sainburys and Harvey Nichols).

Switzerland (Globus), Newzealand and India soon follow along with expansion to a neighbour Asian country including China and Malaysia. Namjai has always been a provider of authentic Thai recipes, made from the finest locally sourced ingredient ensure that our customer receives the truest experience packed with a genuine taste of Thailand whenever they decide to make themselves a Thai curry at home. We, as our namesake 'Generosity' or in our mother tongue, 'Namjai' (น้ำใจ) means to ensure the most refined product, made with utmost care in the wish to send our generosity and hospitality to you. Namjai, family-owned since 1954.

GMP (Good Manufacturing Practice)

Good Manufacturing practices are the practices required in order to conform to the guidelines recommended by agencies that control the authorization and licensing of the manufacture and sale of food and beverages, cosmetics, pharmaceutical products, dietary supplements, and medical devices.

HACCP (Hazard Analysis and Critical Control Points)

(HACCP) Hazard analysis and critical control points is a systematic preventive approach to food safety from biological, chemical, and physical hazards in production processes that can cause the finished product to be unsafe and designs measures to reduce these risks to a safe level.

Halal Food

Halal is an Arabic word that translates to “permissible” in English. In the Quran, the word halal is contrasted with haram. This binary opposition was elaborated into a more complex classification known as “the five decisions” : mandatory, recommended, neutral, reprehensible and forbidden.
