A DEEP-ROOTED HISTORY OF FARMING

Production agriculture is in our bloodline. As a family-owned company that has a deep-rooted history farming in the Pacific Northwest dating back over four generations, we know the hard work and dedication it takes to bring food from field to fork. Our focused effort to build a healthier and more sustainable farm by reducing our demands for commercial farm products has not just improved the health of our farm, but the health of the products that we are able to offer our customers.

REGENERATIVE FARMING

This isn't a marketing slogan for us, it's a way of life. We grow chickpeas because they provide a path to a more sustainable future for our farm and generations to come. They improve soil health, conserve water and reduce our carbon footprint through a natural growing process. When you work with us, you know you are working directly with the source and have the assurance that our commitment to sustainability is backed through verifiable certifications.

THE CLEANER BEAN

We strive towards sensible and sound food production. We are advocates for reducing chemical dependency and believe in helping plants grow as naturally as possible. We implement strict limitations for all pesticides and a zero tolerance for any harmful insecticides or desiccants, including Glyphosate. We are proud to be Detox Project Certified.

THE EMERALD IN THE ROUGH

Looking for the next culinary diamond in the rough? Look no further as green chickpeas are the solution. Simply put, a green chickpea is the common chickpea's hip younger brother. Harvested young while still bright green and full of natural moisture, it provides all the nutritional punch of traditional chickpeas while offering a fresh new twist to this age-old food staple.
