

SURPLUS FOOD DONATION 2025

Speciality & Fine Food Fair is proud to partner with City Harvest to collect and distribute food donations from exhibitors

City Harvest rescues food, people, and planet by preventing food waste, providing life-changing support to communities across London through free food, and reducing greenhouse gas emissions from waste.

They collect surplus food from all parts of the supply chain and deliver it, for free, to 125,000 people via community partners such as schools, homeless shelters, hostels, soup kitchens, mental health charities, community centres and kitchens, to name a few.

On average, a City Harvest community partner receives £75,000 worth of food a year. This budget can then be spent on other services such as extra days opening, legal advice, counselling or extra support as needed.

WHAT CAN YOU DONATE?

City Harvest can collect all edible fresh, chilled, frozen and ambient food. They are unable to take any hot food though. There are just a few requirements:

- Food must be unopened and in its original packaging.
- Food must have labels (in English) with ingredients, allergens, and a best-before/use-by date.
- City Harvest cannot take food past its use-by date.
- Food must have been stored according to guidelines and at the correct temperature.
- City Harvest cannot distribute any alcohol.

The organisers will be setting up 2 collection points for the donations.

The show shuts on Wednesday 10th September at 4pm.

Please bring your surplus samples to The Village Square (1432) on the ground floor and Food for Thought (3237) on the gallery level.

Chilled and frozen donations can also be taken straight to Lowe’s storage area on the gallery level behind stand 3621.
