 We are the farmers!

 40.000 olive trees in our possession - traditional groves, with mature trees, sometimes hundreds of years old - in the Peloponnese peninsula, one of the world's most famous olive oil farming areas

 Traditional groves score significantly better in environmental sustainability because they use less energy and they exhibit better CO2 footprint than intensive ones

 Modern agricultural models implementation

 Manual work being dominant

 New automated irrigation system, New weather stations network and fully integrated cultivation data collection system that allows us to make targeted intervention

LOCATION

We cultivate our 40.000 olive trees in the Peloponnese peninsula.

The sacred land of Ancient Messini (A), where the idea of Olivian Groves came to fruition in 2019.

The idea soon led us to the Northeast of the Peloponnese, in another olive-growing land, Argolida (B).

The headquarters of Olivian Groves is located in Athens (C).
