As Reed's specialist consultancy business, we have over 15 years' experience in delivering projects which support critical business strategy. Our solutions are focused on achieving fixed objectives, on time and on budget, to support or manage your projects.

Our service levels

The way in which organisations manage and deliver projects can vary significantly, so the requirements for the consultancy services that support them can be equally diverse. Our focus is to deliver the requirement and solve the challenge.

Whether you want us to manage the project from end-to-end, or you want to maintain more control, but still have access to expertise working to your deadlines, we can support you.

Our solutions include:

Resource augmentation

Delivery of specialist skills to supplement your projects on a statement of work (SoW) basis

Managed projects

Deployment of multiple resources at times that meet project objectives, all managed by our dedicated project managers

Project based services

Delivery of your project from end-to-end with shared objectives and risk

Services procurement

Management of all consultancy procurement across your business to provide complete control, visibility, and best value

Assessment and selection evaluation

Analysis of your recruitment processes and support in implementing any required changes

How we work

To reflect our goal of delivering truly flexible solutions, we treat each project as unique and will always start with a thorough scoping and investigation phase. From this we can then understand the key variables:

1. What expertise and support do you need?
2. How do you want to work with that support?
3. What are your timelines?

From here, we can scope out a comprehensive SoW that clearly defines what you can expect from us and when you can expect it.

All our projects include the following:

- A dedicated project manager to support your requirements throughout the project and understand what skills you require at each stage
- Project management support through our dedicated project management office
- Bespoke reporting to illustrate budget, milestones and knowledge transfer
- Consolidated invoicing across all resources
