A sample of the work we do...

Humberside NHS Trust

We're helping to reduce NHS waiting times by creating health hubs in remote areas. Patients visit these hubs, which are accessed in their local area, to get access to clinicians based in further afield locations for ongoing care and appointments.

Royal Bolton Hospital

Pioneering work with the Royal Bolton Hospital has seen us help them implement interactive technology in a variety of formats to improve patient rehabilitation times for those recovering from strokes.

Royal Free Hospitals NHS Trust

We delivered the technology for The Charles Wolfson Centre for Reconstructive Surgery, the first operating and teaching space of its kind which provides cutting-edge facilities for surgeons to do reconstructive procedures.

East Lancashire NHS Trust

Blackburn Hospital and Burnley Hospital had a bus to shuttle staff between sites for meetings. They are now completing this in a third of the time using interactive video technologies where they can collaborate and share.

“IDNS are a key partner in the modernisation and development of our AV strategy. What sets IDNS apart is their proposals include detailed technical diagrams and designs so we are clear on what is being delivered.”

Paul Solloway, Deputy Digital Director – Hywel Dda University Health Board

“IDNS worked with our customers to understand and exceed their expectations in terms of service and quality. Royal Free Hospitals, the Charles Wolfson Centre and the students of UCL now have world-class facilities at their fingertips thanks to the successful delivery of this project.”

Robert O’Reilly, Project Manager –
Royal Free Hospitals NHS Trust

“IDNS are very knowledgeable and always take the time to explain in simple terms the technological details. They are hugely empathetic and strive to fully understand our expectations as an organisation by listening to our challenges and clearly identifying the best solutions for any problems encountered.”
