

EVERY POLICE VEHICLE SHOULD CARRY A DEFIBRILLATOR...

DOES YOURS?

What are the benefits?

No time wasted

Officers would not need to locate a community defibrillator first.

Faster response

Officers can begin life-saving treatment immediately.

More lives saved

In a cardiac arrest, every minute without defibrillation reduces the chance of survival.

Police officers are often first on the scene at medical emergencies, but most police vehicles do not carry a defibrillator as standard.

Support Jamie's Law

Jamie's Law would make it mandatory for every police vehicle across the UK to carry a defibrillator. Help us equip police officers with the tools they need to save lives.
