COLOUR MATTERS

At QAB systems we understand that clients have different requirements. Colour coding of lifting equipment may sound like a small issue but when identification of safe lifting points on your site requires brackets to be in line with your policies and procedures then colour is very important. We listened.

A selection of our clients required lifting brackets be yellow or blue.

So now we are producing our 358 single skin lifting bracket in red, blue and yellow.

Gary Wood from QAB Systems said “We were asked by one of our clients who works on rail networks fences, if we could supply the brackets in different colours to comply with their lifting plans. So we have added the 2 new colours to the range, blue and yellow”

QAB Systems will be on display at the International Security Expo 2023 to reach a broad range of clients, from major manufacturers of perimeter protection systems to installers of aftermarket security measures, and everyone who may need an access system for high security mesh.

Find us at Olympia 26th & 27th September on stand B113.
