I knew from the start these guys were different from other marketing companies. They genuinely care about delivering on their promises and I have to say they do! Although I was confident in their integrity, after launching, the results were a little bit slow and I started to panic. However they reassured me that this was normal for a new campaign and within a couple of weeks of my ads being live, sure enough the work started coming in. It snowballed from there and I can't recommend Dan and his team enough.
