

TRAIN IT, DON'T PLANE IT

Join the modal shift revolution

GO BY TRAIN AND MISS OUT THE STRAIN

Travelling between London and Edinburgh by air is plane painful. Don't put yourself through the stress, sit back and relax whilst enjoying a seamless journey with us instead.

Time well spent

We'll whisk you from city centre to city centre, without all the hassle, we will take care of the tricky bit. Not an airport miles from the action. Save money (and time) on transfers and get straight down to business.

Room to work, room to relax

With loads of leg room in Standard and luxurious, comfy seats with big tables in First Class, you've got space to spread out and work, or just relax whilst taking in the views.

Wi-Fi? Why not?

Surf, email and tweet all the way with our onboard Wi-Fi when you book via a participating Travel Management Company, Trainline for Business or LNER4Business.

Food, glorious food

If you've worked up an appetite, there's plenty of choice at our Let's Eat Cafe Bar with a selection of tasty drinks and snacks, including delicious dishes from our Hero Chefs.

DO YOUR BIT FOR THE ENVIRONMENT

On a train journey from London King's Cross to Edinburgh, 22.77kg CO2 emissions are released in comparison to the same journey on a plane which releases 145.07kg CO2 emissions.

On average, a plane produces over 53 pounds of carbon dioxide (CO2) per mile. If you take the train, then you'll cut carbon dioxide by half.

CO2 EMISSIONS

22.77

GCO2/Passenger

London King's Cross to Edinburgh Waverley

vs

145.07

GCO2/Passenger

Gatwick to Edinburgh

The calculations are based on:

- Car = average petrol car 0.35915 kgCO2e/mile / 1.5 (average loading for a car DfT statistic dataset vehicle mileage and occupancy) = 0.2394333333 kgCO2e/ pass mile
- Train = National Rail 0.0689119388 kgCO2e/ pass mile
- Plane = Domestic Flight with radiative forcing 0.4389957652 kgCO2e/ pass mile
